BRITISH DRIVE NEARS TOBRUK

By W. P. SAPHIRE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CAIRO, Jan. 6 (INS)—With the vital Libyan port of Bardia and 30,000 Italian prisoners taken in their drive against Italy's African empire, elements of British advance forces are now approaching the area of Tobruk, 70 miles to the west, it was officially announced today.

OFF FOR LONDON POST—Harry Hopkins, personal envoy of President Roosevelt, boards an Atlantic clipper plane at New York today . . . bound for London.

Announcement that the drive on Tobruk had already begun came as a complete surprise. Military observers in Cairo considered it certain the British would tarry for considerable time at Bardia to strengthen their position before striking out for the base where Marshal Italo Balbo was killed in a mysterious plane crash some months ago.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Cairo said British bombers made concentrated attacks on Tobruk throughout Saturday night and Sunday and started one fire visible from Bardia.—Editor's Note.)

Coincident with announcement of the drive on Tobruk, the British high command in Cairo made known that the Bardia victory exceeded all early estimates in the number of prisoners taken.

30,000 CAPTURED

More than 30,000 Italian officers and men—comprising more than one-tenth of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's entire African army—were taken when Australian and New Zealand troops, backed by the British navy and air force and swift mechanized units of the British army, surged into the heavily-defended desert stronghold.

It is now estimated that at least 80,000 Italians have fallen into British hands since the latter took the offensive in North Africa.

The communique announcing the rapid-fire approach to Tobruk said:

"While clearance of the battlefield at Bardia is progressing, advanced elements of our forces are now approaching the Tobruk area.

"Prisoners counted at Bardia number 30,000, with quantities of tanks, guns, equipment and stores of all sorts.

"Patrolling activity continues on the frontiers of Sudan and Kenya."

Day Raids on London Renewed by Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—German raiders, following up a new overnight fire bomb attack on London, raided the capital again today in daylight and bombs were reported to have fallen in three districts.

By midafternoon the sirens had wailed three air raid alarms. The third was preceded by the sound of gunfire in some areas.

Until yesterday, when one alert sounded, there had not been a daylight alarm in London for many weeks.

During today's second alarm a man and a girl were killed when two bombs fell on a business building. Other bombs demolished two houses and damaged about a dozen others.

Machine-gun fire—the sign of aerial battle—was heard in the sky.

Although "many buildings were damaged and some persons killed" in the fire bomb attack last night, the government said the raid was not on a heavy scale and ended before midnight.

It was the first concentrated incendiary attack on the capital since the devastating fire raid on the city of London—financial and commercial center—a week earlier, but this time Londoners were ready for the test.

An army of volunteers—men, women and boys—smothered the incendiary bombs as fast as they were dropped in one sector and defiantly shouted: "We want some

Life goes on overseas—blackouts, bombings and blockades notwithstanding. Here is the first of a series of LETTERS FROM ENGLAND, written by real persons in war-ridden areas to relatives and friends in New England. These human documents disclose in their simplicity and sincerity the true spirit and hopes of the English people. Names of senders or recipients are deleted in some cases where this has been requested.

My Dear Jessie: Nov. 7, 1940.

Well, your "air mail" letter has got through all right, although it took 15 days and was opened by the censor, but nothing was crossed out.

I imagine the envelope had a blue tissue paper lining, and I'm wondering whether YOU took it out to make it weigh less, or whether he thought there might be a secret message or something under it? I suspect the latter!

If this reaches you, do tell me if its been censored and if anything has been blacked out. Its awfully difficult to know what I can tell you and I know you are longing to hear all about everything. Well, don't you worry about old England, my dear, because despite dear little Adolf's precious "Blitz" she is still quite well, thank you—very much so!

LOT OF DAMAGE

Of course he's done an awful lot of damage to property and killed 14,000 civilians, according to the papers, and injured 20,000 more, but in spite of all this, he has NOT done what he wanted to i.e. caused a panic.

It's true that London has evacuated as many women and children as possible, but what sense would there be in their staying there to be bombed when they would only have been in the way, in any case?

And although he has smashed up a lot of the big stores, they've all opened again and some are even now advertising their Christmas Fairs for the children!

We are preparing for a long war quite cheerfully—having shelters built where people can sleep properly, with lighting, sanitation and so on, and doctors to inspect the children, and we are putting our thumbs to our noses (both thumbs, in fact!!) and telling him to do his damnedest.

LAUDS GREECE

I think it will slack off during the winter and then they'll start again in the spring. Isn't Greece perfectly splendid?

My "home town," as you would call it, has had its first raid and is rather proud of the fact! I happened to be at home when it occurred and was just having a cup of cocoa before going to bed (about 9:30), when we heard a plane coming. I said to M. "That's a German!" but before she could reply it seemed to go right over the house and there was a terrific crash followed immediately by a long whistling sound and a second crash. We both exclaimed, "Bombs!" (quite unnecessarily!) and flew to turn off the gas at the meter, see if there was anyone in the street who needed shelter (there wasn't) and fetch grandmother (who goes to bed early) downstairs. By that time, the excitement was all over.

WASTE OF BOMBS

We IMAGINE he was being chased and just jettisoned his bombs (about ten explosives in all and a few incendiaries), but it may have been done on purpose. Several houses were smashed up, but no one was injured, so it was rather a waste of bombs!

One only just missed our house and a second was pretty close. I've done some of our windows with net, but not all.

We had a bad railway smash some fifty miles from here, a few

F. D. Outlines Peril, Urges Arms Speedup

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt today foretold a "physical attack" on the United States "if the dictator nations win this war" in a message to Congress urging a "swift and driving increase" in armament production.

The United States, the Chief Executive told the legislators, faces an unprecedented "foreign peril." He asked that the war supplies turned out in the swift-paced program he envisioned be made available for the fighting "democracies" abroad as well as for this country's own defense forces.

"The need of the moment," Mr. Roosevelt said in his annual message on the state of the Union, "is that our actions and policy should be devoted primarily — almost exclusively—to meeting this foreign peril. For all our domestic problems are now a part of the great emergency."

Appearing before a joint session of House and Senate in the great House chamber, the Chief Executive said he would ask Congress for "greatly increased new appropriations" to carry on the defense program and recommended that "a greater portion of this great defense program be paid for from taxation than we are paying today."

"I also ask Congress," he said, "for authority and for funds sufficient to manufacture additional munitions and war supplies of many kinds, to be turned over to those nations which are now in actual war with aggressor nations."

Mr. Roosevelt did not list the nations to receive help through his

MRS. MARIE PHILLIPS CURLEY ASKS DIVORCE

Ex-Showgirl Lillian Duval Sues in Suffolk Court

PAUL CURLEY SUED HERE FOR DIVORCE

Disclosure that Paul G. Curley's beautiful show-girl wife has been refused a divorce in Florida came today as Mrs. Marie Phillips Curley filed a similar petition in Suffolk probate court.

The bride of the former Governor's son charged her spouse in this latest action with cruel and abusive treatment and stated that her previous petition had been turned down because Florida courts ruled they had no jurisdiction.

Known to New York night club circles as Lillian Duval, the attractive singer, then 32, was married to Paul at Mount Ridge, N. Y., Dec. 29, 1936.

Young Curley, then 23, had completed his studies at Georgetown University in Washington six months before.

In her petition today Mrs. Curley asks permission to resume her maiden name, but does not ask alimony as she did in her Florida action.

Her allegations of cruelty stated that the first took place on Dec. 15, 1937, in Boston, before a year of their marriage had elapsed.

She said that there were other acts on May 12, 1938, on Jan. 11, 1940, and on "divers other occasions."

Young Curley's address in the petition is listed as Boston. He is

Nazi Tax Chief Pledges No New 1941 Levy

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—There will be no new taxes or any increase in old ones for Germans in 1941, Fritz Reinhardt, Prussian finance minister, said today in an article in a tax publication. He said 1940 had been very successful in Germany from a tax standpoint.

Gainard, Hero, Claims Foreigners Rule Ship Union

By JAMES DOOLING

This is the real story of an American sea captain, hero of the Athenia rescue, holder of the Navy Cross for his thrilling exploits on the City of Flint. Certain elements in maritime circles which he calls "foreign influences" bar him from the bridge of any merchant ship. Many persons are convinced that Reds rule the ranks of the merchant marine and that Communists control the National Maritime Union. Others see Nazi forces undermining seamen's organizations. Read Capt. Joseph A. Gainard's experiences here and draw your own conclusions.

He's one of the best skippers on the seven seas, but he can't get a ship.

Over his heart he is entitled to wear the prized Navy Cross, awarded to seafaring men for deeds of great valor in peacetime or in war.

He won his Navy Cross because "his skill, fine judgment and devotion to duty were of the highest order and in accordance with the best traditions of the naval service."

Yet Capt. Joseph A. Gainard, rescuer of 236 of the torpedoed Athenia's survivors, the man whose daring exploits as master of the City of Flint are unforgetable, can't get a merchant ship to command, and if it weren't for the fact that the Navy is calling him back into service he is certain he never would get a ship.

"No private company would dare give me a berth," he says. "Certain elements in the CIO would raise so much hell that no company could afford it."

If he were owner of a private company, he does not see how he could afford to employ as a master anyone who might possibly have continual crew difficulty. He feels that this is his status now.

He names no names. He carefully avoids reference to any but "foreign influences" in labor circles, but he says quite flatly that American seamen are "hindered by foreign influences."

He says that unless the "foreign influences" in the American merchant marine are ended, it may spell the end of the American merchant marine. And more.

CALLED RED 'STOOGE'

Many persons have given the "foreign influences" of which Capt. Gainard speaks the name of Soviet Russia. Harry Bridges, notorious West Coast maritime leader, has been escaping deportation by the skin of his teeth for several years. His popular label has been Communist.

Joe Curran, chief of the National Maritime Union, has been called a Communist "stooge" and his union is believed by many to have a definitely reddish tinge.

Capt. Gainard avoids going into any of these subjects, and in referring to his own particular position of being a man without a ship because he is a man with a country, there is only a wry sort of humor.

"The bigger so-and-so they think I am, the better American I know I am," is the way he puts it.

But when he gets to discussing what he firmly believes those "foreign influences" are doing to the United States, its merchant marine, and the very defense program itself, Capt. Joe Gainard boils in that

FORDHAM RECORDS QUAKES

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—The seismograph at Fordham University recorded an earthquake of moderate intensity at 4:55 a. m. today at a distance of about 2340 miles from New York. This shock followed one recorded at 2:04 a. m, which was "very severe" and about 10,000 miles distant.

TOBIN WARNS OF HUB DECAY; DEMANDS BROADER TAX BASE

Warning that Boston is threatened with "virtual decay and destruction" as a result of dwindling property values and population, Mayor Tobin today called for prompt remedial measures, including improvement of highway and parking facilities, broadening of the tax base and possible further curtailment of municipal services.

In his annual address to the city council, the mayor said extensive plans for Boston highway improvements, "in conjunction with a program for off-street parking facilities," will be presented to the incoming State Legislature.

"These proposals will be submitted to the Legislature, the Mayor said, "with the hope and the expectation that authority will be given and funds provided, so that this first essential to a newer and better Boston can be commenced without delay.

"Unless we can, as a start, relieve the traffic congestion which exists in our city and unless we can provide the facilities for business terminals and parking of motor vehicles, we shall make no progress in the rehabilitation of Boston," the Mayor continued.

CITES DANGERS

Of dangers threatening the city, he said:

"It is my strong conviction that the time has come in the life of our city when every co-operative effort must be lent to the problem of preserving our city and protecting it from further decay and from further decentralization.

"Boston, like most large cities, has ceased to grow in population. Surrounding us are cities and towns whose population rate is increasing and which have not only been attracting our residents but which have also taken from us some of our industries and commercial establishments.

"As these surrounding communities gain in population and commercial possibilities, the central city, which is Boston, continues to struggle to retain its place as a large business and residential center.

"This trend away from the central city has manifold results of a serious nature to our city. There is, to name but a few, loss of employment to our citizens; loss of sales and business to our commercial establishments; loss of taxable properties to the city government; increase in vacant properties; increase in demolitions; increase in slum areas."

TAX PROBLEM

Discussing Boston's tax problem, the mayor asserted that "no one can deny that an annual tax of four per cent on real estate is unduly burdensome."

He then went on to outline successive steps by which the local tax burden has been shifted to real estate.

"In 1916," he said, "intangible personal property was removed from local taxation. The City of Boston immediately lost local taxes on $160,000,000 worth of property. In 1919, tangible property of corporations other than machinery was removed from local taxation. In 1924, bank stock was removed from local taxation.

"In 1936, corporation machinery was removed from local taxation and the basis of distribution of corporation taxes was changed."

All these tax revisions, the mayor said, lost the city revenue from $300,000,000 worth of property, which, taxed at $35 a thousand, would have amounted to $10,500,000 annually.

In place of this lost revenue, Boston received only $4,349,215.81 as its share of income and corporation taxes, according to the mayor.

Furthermore, he said, assessed value of Boston real estate dwindled from $1,827,460,600 in 1930 to $1,362,131,560 in 1940, a loss of $463,329,100 in 11 years.

FURTHER BURDENS SEEN

Anticipating further tax burdens growing out of expenditures for national defense, Mayor Tobin revealed his intention of seeking a conference of federal, state and local officials.

"At present and for some time past," he said, "there has been a crying need for a national conference on taxation. In many fields there is an overlapping of federal, state and local taxes.

"In view of the tremendous increase in federal appropriations for preparedness, it is natural to expect a greater aggravation of this overlapping as a result of new federal tax laws.

Boston's curtailed sources of tax revenue may compel further economy in expenditures for municipal services, Mayor Tobin said.

In view of "fundamental changes which are taking place," he continued, "there is some basis to the claim that our city, shrinking in population, is maintaining extensive and expensive services not justified by either the size of the city or the promises of the future."

"That, however, is an argumentative matter. There is no good argument, conversely, to the statement that we must give less thought to expansion of those services and some thought to their reduction.

"The changes which have taken place in our city, and which can be observed by the most casual inspection, have not been sudden changes. Ten years ago they were recognized as serious in their magnitude and possibility. Today they have become even more serious, and we can foresee that unless prompt measures are taken the contagion will spread until virtual decay and destruction of the whole city has taken place."

Missing since Friday night, Phyllis Hawkins, 24, of Attleboro, today was the object of a state-wide police search after her disappearance was reported by her father. Today, it was learned that Robert J. Goode of Wrentham disappeared on the same day. She was wearing glasses, a black hat and coat and a red plaid dress when last seen.

Attleboro Girl, Man Missing for 3 Days

ATTLEBORO, Jan. 6—Search for pretty Phyllis Hawkins, 24, missing since Friday night from her Commonwealth ave. home, became a little complicated today when police also reported Robert J. Goode, 24, of Wrentham, as missing since the same day.

Both are employed at a local box plant, but romance-scenting police became perplexed when fellow employes said they had not seen the couple together before the vanishings and had no inkling they were interested in each other—if, indeed they were.

The girl was reported missing by her father, Edwin E. Hawkins, prominent businessman, who said when the family returned from the movies she was gone. She left no note.

Her parents said she had never stayed away over night before without letting them know. Even if she intended staying away an hour longer than usual, they said, she usually let them know.

It was several hours after her disappearance had been reported that the absence of Goode was told to Attleboro police and State Police at Wrentham.

Goode, it was said, had not been seen since Friday afternoon. His sedan, bearing Massachusetts registration 287,232, is also gone.

Police said Miss Hawkins' fiance, Joseph Gonsalves, is also disturbed over her disappearance.

When last seen she was wearing gold-rimmed glasses, a black hat, black coat, red dress with plaid stripes and black suede shoes.

Refugees Here Tell of War Horror

With a "League of Nations' crew composed of Polish, Chinese, East Indian, British nad Dutch sailors, the Dutch freighter Bodegraven, the first armed Dutch commercial vessel seen in this port, arrived here today with a tale of battering seas and separation from a convoy of 58 other ships two days out of Liverpool.

The freighter left the English port 18 days ago with an escort of seven destroyers, including some of the "swap" ships the United States sent to Halifax.

Storms struck and the convoy split. Later the air was filled with radio calls and it is believed three of the vessels were sunk.

EYEWITNESS STORIES

Eye witness accounts of the war zones in England and Germany were given by five passengers who disembarked here. Sailors reported that Liverpool suffered almost constant day and night bombing while they were tied up there but that the big docks were still operating. Damage, they said, was more severe in residential sections.

Dr. Hans W. Cohnstadt, former nose and throat consultant at Erfurt, Germany, said he left Germany in 1938 for England and recently has been doing volunteer work for the wounded in London. His closest call was in helping evacuate women and children when a time bomb fell behind the apartment house in which he was living in London.

PRIEST AMONG PASSENGERS

Dr. Cohnstadt plans to go to Johns Hopkins in Baltimore.

Alfred Steinhauer, 22, fled Vienna when the Nazis came in but was captured and spent six months in the concentration camp at Dachau. The mortality rate was high, he said, and the prisoners ill fed and ill clothed.

Turned loose, he made his way to London and is now attempting to make Detroit, the center where he can arrange to rejoin a brother now in Montevideo, Uruguay, and his parents who are in Bolivia.

A Czech Catholic priest, who declined to give his name for fear of reprisals against his 80-year-old father in Prague, said he published two church papers in the Sudetenland before he fled to Prague from which he later escaped by plane and reached England.

SHIP NEWS — Aboard the Dutch freighter Bodegraven, with its many-nation crew, Dr. Hans W. Cohnstadt of Erfurt, Germany, arrives safely in Boston today. The ship encountered stormy seas after being separated from aconvoy out of Liverpool.

BOY, GIRL OVERCOME IN FIRE

Two small children were overcome by smoke and were taken to a hospital while nine other persons were led to safety today when flames swept a wooden six-tenement house in Western ave., Lynn.

Police and firemen were nearly at their wits' end trying to persuade one of the latter to leave the burning premises—a 70-year-old woman who insisted on staying until she had found her purse.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Albee, finally found it hidden in a bag, and was led out, unscathed.

The children who were felled by the smoke were Charles McGrath, 5, and his brother, Michael, 7, whose family lived on the third and top floor.

Sergt. J. Henry Wall and Patrolman William Toomey took the McGrath children to Lynn Hospital. Both victims will recover, officials said.

The fire, which caused damage estimated at $3000, started in the basement, according to firemen. The building is in a thickly congested area.

Public Safety Theme Of Fitchburg Mayor

FITCHBURG, Jan. 6—Deferment of many local demands will be caused by the city's co-operation with federal and state governments in the national defense program during 1941, Mayor Alfred Woollacott declared today in delivering his mid-term address.

Mayor Woollacott revealed that the 1941 budget will contain larger appropriations for public safety. He pointed out the immediate need of better traffic facilities and more policing because of the increased activity at Ft. Devens.

Hug and Kiss Suits May Be Settled

With the possibility of a settlement rumored, counsel conferred for some time today with Probate Judge Arthur E. Beane of Middlesex county in the cross suits for divorce brought by Robert Reed Butterworth and Lilly Helen Butterworth, both of Medford.

Hearing was scheduled to resume today, but instead Judge Beane went into conference with counsel—George E. Hayward for the husband and Edmund L. Twomey and Albert M. Chandler for the wife.

Meanwhile Mrs. Butterworth, who was held up in testimony last week as a girl who tried to hug and kiss a policeman taking her to Medford police station as allegedly intoxicated, sat in court with three young women friends. She was modishly clad in a grey chinchilla coat, and hat to match.

The Butterworths charge each other with cruel and abusive treatment and intoxication.

Thus far today the comely Mrs. Butterworth had not had her innings in court, all of the first day's testimony being in behalf of the husband.

The policeman, a lawyer with offices in the Beacon st. building where she worked, and a Medford neighbor all testified she had been intoxicated in their presence.

The Medford policeman, Richard J. Case, testified she was picked up off a sidewalk by him as she was lying on the walk and kicking at several men attempting to keep her skirts down.

Australian Loss Only 500 in Bardia Sweep

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 6 (AP)—Reuter's, British news agency, quoted an Australian communique today as saying Australian casualties at Bardia do not exceed 500.

Sheppard to Introduce Legion's Draft Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Chairman Sheppard (D.), of Texas of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, said today he would introduce, at the request of the American Legion, a bill to make only men from 18 through 21 years old subject to conscription.

Sheppard said he had taken no personal stand on the measure and merely was introducing it at the Legion's request. Legion officials said that in addition to altering the present 21 through 35 draft age limits the measure would make conscription permanent.

NEW GRAND JURY NOW IN SESSION

In superior court today, Judge Edward F. Hanify swore in the new grand jury that will sit for six months. The jurors elected as their foreman Charles F. McCormick of 53 Dunster rd., Jamaica Plain, an agent, and elected as clerk Lloyd L. Doyle of 279 Bowdoin st., Dorchester, a salesman.

The other 20 members of the grand jury are:

George H. Carleton of Elmira st., Brighton, machinist; Walter T. Carlson, Boston st., South Boston, mechanic; Robert H. Dean, Millett st., Dorchester, plumber; John Doherty, Radcliffe rd., Dorchester, engineer; Nicholas Frasca, Brigham st., East Boston, painter.

James J. Gormley of Dr. Michael J. Gavin way, South Boston, a manager; John J. Halloran, Lagrange pl., Roxbury, caretaker; Edward S. Healy, Jr., Draper st., Dorchester, a clerk; Philip J. Hennessey, Melbourne st., Dorchester, a foreman; Robert B. Higgins, Francis st., Roxbury, salesman.

John J. Kennedy, Commonwealth ave., Brighton, agent; Frederick D. King, Ellis st., Dorchester, carpenter; John McCormack, Atlantic st., Winthrop, hoisting engineer; Thomas F. Mahoney, Bogandale rd., West Roxbury, compositor; Gerald McGowan, Boylston st., Jamaica Plain, shipper.

James E. Morrill, Sumner pk., South Boston, plumber; Edward J. O'Brien, N st., South Boston, realtor; George F. Ross, Dustin st., Brighton, plumber; Vincent Scaramella, Orleans st., East Boston, salesman, and Harry R. Studley, Carmen st., Dorchester, laundryman.

Perhaps next week the jurors will begin to hear witnesses in connection with the market probe under way for several months by Dist.-Atty. William J. Foley.

This concerns charges by market men that graft was paid, for special privileges, to a high city official.

Wheeler Grants Davis Hearing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (INS)—Sen. Wheeler (D.) of Montana announced today he would grant the request of William R. Davis to appear before a Senate committee to answer charges that he is attempting to end the European war "on Hitler's terms."

Wheeler, head of a committee which will investigate the channelling of American defense secrets to Nazi Germany through patent exchanges, said that Davis would be one of the first witnesses before the committee when it convenes later this week.

Davis came into the limelight when Verne Marshall, chairman of the no foreign war committee, said the oil operator brought a peace conference proposal from the German government to Washington in the fall of 1939.

Wheeler said he had not seen Davis' letter to him asking for a hearing but added "I have never denied anybody an investigation that wants to be investigated."

F. D. to Pay Garner Visit in Texas Home

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Friends of Vice-President Garner disclosed today President Roosevelt had promised to visit the Garner home at Uvalde, Tex., whenever the opportunity arose.

The two, sometimes at odds over Administration policies and divided during the President's campaign for a third term, got together at the White House last week for the first time since last September. They had a long, cordial chat and Garner intimates said he invited his chief to Texas for some of the "finest fishing you ever had."

Death Took 11 on U.S. Plane by but 20 Feet

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 6 (AP)—Civil and naval officials, poking through the scattered wreckage of a $120,000 Navy transport plane, asserted today that had the big ship been flying 20 feet higher it would have cleared the rugged Mother Grundy Range and reached its destination only 20 miles away with all 11 occupants safe.

The Navy arranged for an official investigation of the crash that killed everybody aboard, including four who had escaped death only last Thursday in a Texas bomber mishap.

Civilian aviation observers generally blamed weather conditions.

The big plane, en route to the naval air station here, carried three members of a board of inquiry appointed to investigate the Texas accident, and the four survivor of that previous mishap.

The four had parachuted to safety when their bomber, being ferried from here to Pensacola, Fla., by way of Corpus Christi, Tex., encountered a severe storm. A fifth crew member "bailed out" but was killed when his 'chute failed to open. The pilot and co-pilot, who risked their lives to ride out the storm and land the ship on a small pond, proved ultimately to be the only survivors of the seven aboard the bomber.

The dead were Lieut.-Comdr. Joseph Henry Gowan, 34, Head Hill, Ark., pilot; David Everett Ferguson, 33, Neponset, W. Va., co-pilot; Lieut.-Comdr. Stephen Bland Cooke, 42, Harrison, Ark.; Lieut. Victor S. Gaulin, 34, Lowell, Mass., and Lieut. James Cyril Flemming, 36, Reading, Pa., members of the board of inquiry; Frank Recke, Jr., 30, National City, Cal.; L. J. Hughes, 30, Grand Rapids, Mich.; H. E. Neff, 34, San Diego, and A. M. Parry, 31, Los Angeles, survivors of the Texas mishap; and Marvin Magee, 32, Long Branch, N. J., and Frank Richard Naylor, 25, Dayton, Ky., crew members of the wrecked transport plane.

SWEAR-IN TIME IN QUINCY—As Mayor Thomas S. Burgin (center) looks on after being sworn in for the third time as Quincy's chief executive, City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell is sworn in for the 53d time. Acting City Clerk Hattiemay Thomas administered the oaths.

Quincy Councilor Leaves Sickbed to End Deadlock

A Quincy city councilor left his sickbed today to break a deadlock in a contest for council president, and by his vote elected an opponent to that office.

The new president is Councilor William W. Jenness, and the man whose vote elected him was Councilor Christian A. Burkhard. Councilor Aldo Della Chiesa was third man in the race.

This election was the feature of Quincy's inaugural day, as Mayor Thomas S. Burgin was sworn in for a third term. For the first time in the city's history, the oath was administered by a woman, Miss Hatieway Thomas, acting clerk during illness of Clerk Emery Crane.

NEW POLICE CAPTAIN ASKED

Mayor Burgin's inaugural address recommended establishment of a new captaincy in the police department, to head a revamped traffic bureau. He asked 10 new police and 10 new firemen as well.

Costs of these new posts, he said, would be offset by revenue from the city's new buildings and expansion of industrial plants such as Fore River. He also wants a new wire station at Quincy Point, near the shipyards.

He said he had contemplated asking for a new $500,000 City Hall, but in the face of the President's request that steel and other heavy materials be used in the defense program, decided to postpone the City Hall proposal.

FALL RIVER INAUGURAL

Mayor Burgin, however, did advocate construction of a central generating plant. The heat from it he said, could be used for the police station, public works building and other structures.

Quincy's inaugural was one of a series scheduled today and tonight throughout the state. Mayor Daniel E. McLean was sworn in at Beverly for a third term and in Fall River Mayor Alexander C. Murray began his second.

At Revere, Mayor Raymond E. Carey will be formally sworn this evening, but since a quirk in the city charter provides the outgoing mayor's term ended last night, City Clerk Joseph M. McCristal administered the oath at Mayor Carey's home today.

He Breaks Into Lockup in Maine To Take Own Life

BELFAST, Me., Jan. 6 (AP)—The body of an unidentified man, his throat cut, was found today in the Waldo County jail lockup in the Belfast city building.

Dr. O. S. Vickery, medical examiner, said he was a suicide.

The man, about 60 years of age, wearing overalls, apparently entered the unoccupied lockup sometime yesterday. Police and county officials investigated the circumstances of his entry.

CONCORD PROTESTS AIRPORT

Rallying to defense of the "peace and dignity and quiet charm" of historic Concord, residents of the town registered emphatic protest today against state purchase of land in Bedford and Concord for a projected federal-commercial airport.

"I've hunted foxes since boyhood in the land they want to take for this airport," Samuel Hoar of Concord told the joint legislative Committee on Public Safety and Military Affairs at a State House hearing.

"My family has lived in Concord for 300 years.

"If the proposed airport were really for national defense, I'd let 'em build it on my front lawn.

"But it's a commercial proposition. It's going to mean a constant din of airline planes coming and going. It's going to mean low-flying planes menacing lives and property.

"It's going to mean loss forever of Concord's old and quiet dignity. Persons who have come to Concord to make their homes are going to be deprived of the community's historic peace and charm.

"There are better places for this airport to be located. The state already owns land near Sudbury which would be suitable for the purpose."

With Hoar as their general spokesman and keynoter, approximately a dozen Concord citizens appeared at the hearing to oppose the state land purchase suggested by Governor Saltonstall in his inaugural address and since incorporated in a legislative bill.

CROCKER SNOW IN FAVOR

Crocker Snow, state commissioner of aeronautics, appeared in support of the measure.

He said federal funds would finance full development of the Bedford-Concord airport which would be of "vital value to commercial lines and potential value to the national defense."

The site, he said, has the double advantage of being sufficiently far inland to avoid coastal fogs, yet being near Boston and adjacent to improved state highways.

Norman MacDonald, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations, asked that the committee report on the airport land purchase bill be deferred at least a week, until accurate estimates of costs be prepared and examined.

KENNEY SEES FIRE HAZARD

In regard to proposed legislation to cede 8600 acres of state-owned land to the federal government for enlargement of the military reservation at Camp Edwards, State Commissioner of Conservation Raymond J. Kenney urged precaution against wooded areas of the land grant becoming a fire hazard.

He suggested that the Commonwealth retain 500 acres to house forest fire prevention apparatus and a state headquarters for fire-fighting and forestry units.

Adjt.-Gen. Edgar C. Erickson said the added land at Camp Edwards is needed for artillery practice and other field maneuvers.

Weymouth Mother Dies, Son Is Sought

New York police today were asked to find the son of Mrs. Anne Grady, 68, of Lincoln st., North Weymouth, who died at her home of a heart attack.

Her son, said to be a motion picture executive, recently purchased for her the home where she died and had visited her for the Christmas holidays.

U. S. Must Help Beat Dictators, Says F. D.

lease-lend plan, but in his recent fireside talk on defense he referred specifically to Britain, China and Greece.

"Such aid is not an act of war," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "even if a dictator should unilaterally proclaim it so to be."

In fulfillment of the purpose of extending aid, the President also declared, the nation "will not be intimidated by the threats of dictators that they will regard as a breach of international law and as an act of war our aid to the democracies which dare to resist their aggression."

"When the dictators are ready to make war upon us, they will not wait for an act of war on our part," he continued. "They did not wait for Norway or Belgium or the Netherlands to commit an act of war."

Mr. Roosevelt set forward in three points what he described as "our national policy" in this time of "serious danger" and he also proclaimed the principles of "four essential human freedoms" to which "we look forward" in "the future days."

NATIONAL POLICY

The "national policy" the President stated as:

"First, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to all-inclusive national defense.

"Second, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to full support of all those resolute peoples, everywhere, who are resisting aggression and are thereby keeping war away from our hemisphere. By this support, we express our determination that the democratic cause shall prevail; and we strengthen the defense and security of our own nation.

"Third, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to the proposition that principles of morality and considerations for our own security will never permit us to acquiesce in a peace dictated by aggressors and sponsored by appeasers. We know that enduring peace cannot be bought at the cost of other people's freedom."

The "four essential human freedoms" were described by the President as "the very antithesis of the so-called new order of tyranny which the dictators seek to create with the crash of a bomb."

He described these "freedoms" as:

"The first is freedom of speech and expression — everywhere in the world.

"The second is freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world.

"The third is freedom from want — which, translated into world terms, means economic understandings which will secure to every nation a healthy peace time life for its inhabitants—everywhere in the world.

"The fourth is freedom from fear—which, translated into world terms, means a world-wide reduction of armaments to such a point and in such a thorough fashion that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor—anywhere in the world."

APPEASEMENT WARNING

In terse phrases, the President warned Congress and the country against what he called "appeasement."

"To make the United States safe," Mr. Roosevelt said, "the immediate need is a swift and driving increase in our armament production."

He reported that he was not "satisfied with the progress thus far made" and neither were the men he has put in charge of the program.

Illustrating the status of the defense drive, Mr. Roosevelt said that "we are behind schedule in turning out finished airplanes; we are working day and night to solve the innumerable problems and to catch up. We are ahead of schedule in building warships; but we are working to get even further ahead of schedule."

All current domestic problems the President said, are linked to the emergency. He made several recommendations of an entirely domestic character.

HISTORIC TRUTH

After reviewing briefly America's participation in past wars, the President said he wanted to convey a "historic truth" that the United States as a nation has always "maintained opposition to any attempt to lock us in behind an ancient Chinese wall, while the procession of civilization went past."

The strength of the British fleet in the Atlantic, Mr. Roosevelt said, "has been" and "is still" a friendly strength.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Now, the President said, "no realistic American can expect from a dictator's peace international generosity, or return of true independence, or world disarmament, or freedom of expression, or freedom of religion—or even good business."

"Such a peace," he said, "would bring no security for us or for our neighbors."

Rescuers Dig To Save 8 Girls In Bristol Ruins

BRISTOL, Eng., Jan. 4 (INS) —While relatives and friends knelt in prayer among the twisted ruins of the bomb-wrecked Y. W. C. A. building, rescue squads today worked heroically to tunnel under tons of debris to reach eight trapped girls.

The girls, who were in a strongly-built concrete shelter when the German bombs wrecked the building Friday night, are believed still alive.

6 GENERALS ARE CAPTURED AS BARDIA FALLS TO BRITISH

mander of the troops which finally were overwhelmed after 20 days of siege, and five other Italian generals, were captured after Bardia fell.

Gen. Berganzoli, whose fierce blue-black beard earned him the nickname "Electric Whiskers," served as a commander of Italian forces in Spain's civil war on the side of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. He was a reputed expert in organizing last-ditch defenses of beleaguered strongholds.

When the end came the Italians surrendered in droves, and today one of the greatest problems confronting the British was that of moving the captives to the rear.

One group of Italians 2000 strong emerged from a cave where they had taken refuge and surrendered en masse. They gave themselves up to a single Australian officer and eight men.

ROAR INTO BASE

Spearhead of the triumphant assault were the Australian shock troops, who roared into Bardia supported by British Empire mechanized forces and artillery. The fighting men from "Down Under" went into battle singing their favorite marching song—"We're Off to See the Wizard of Oz."

The final crushing blow was delivered in the form of a bayonet charge by the Australians. This overwhelmed the last pocket of Italian resistance—a small area where hundreds of Italians were slain in the futile, last-ditch defense.

All indications pointed to British use of Bardia, with its deep harbor and its huge stocks of Italian materials, as a base for an advance against Tobruk, 80 miles farther west.

In the past week or two, amid the siege of Bardia, British patrols have penetrated within a few miles of that distant Fascist stronghold, while RAF planes have repeatedly attacked it and other Italian western Libyan bases.

HAUL DOWN FLAG

A dramatic symbol of the newest and greatest British victory of the war was enacted when the British forces hauled down the Italian flag from the mast of Bardia's main government building and hoisted the Union Jack.

After seeing hundreds of his troops killed in the vain defense of the seaport, Gen. Berganzoli finally ran up the white flag of surrender yesterday afternoon, despite reported orders from Premier Mussolini to hold at all costs.

It was understood that the Fascist commander gave in when his water, food and munition supplies began to run short and it became evident that further resistance would lead only to wholesale slaughter of his men.

Bardia, when it fell, was ablaze with fires started by thousands of land and naval shells and tons of aerial bombs.

Important support was lent the British by "Free French" marines of the forces of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. These Frenchmen cut the only road of Italian escape to the west before the final occupation of Bardia was completed.

Day Raids Renewed On London

more." The raiders obliged promptly and the watchers dealt with those bombs just as quickly.

In this area, observers said, there seemed to be as many watchers as bombs, even though the raiders were said to be dropping them "in basketfuls."

FIRES STARTED

"Fires were started at several points," a British communique said, "but were so promptly dealt with that none of them assumed serious proportions."

Five bodies were reported recovered from wrecked houses in one district and rescue parties strove to extricate 13 other persons entombed in the wreckage.

A small force of British bombers was reported today to have attacked shipping in the docks at Brest, German-occupied France, and an airdrome just before dusk yesterday.

Berlin Claims Fires Set in Mid-London

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (INS)—Several fires were observed in the heart of London after German warplanes showered the British capital with incendiary and explosive bombs during the night, it was officially announced today.

Other Nazi bombers raided Hull, Darlington and Lincoln the announcement said. Isolated plants and airports also were reported to have been attacked.

Yesterday, it was stated, German planes bombed shipping convoys off the English east coast, heavily hitting a merchant vessel of 3000 or 4000 tons, while two patrol boats and one 6000-ton freighter were "effectively hit."

DeGaulle Aide On Trial in France

GANNAT, France, Jan. 6 (AP)—Foreign Legion Cavalry Capt. Robert was courtmartialed on charges of De Gaulle-ist activity today in the first session of the national courtmartial in the palace of justice here.

The courtmartial must hand down sentence within 48 hours, and sentence must be executed within 24 hours. There is no appeal. Capt. Robert was charged with "serving a foreign army by trying to recruit French military to the cause of that foreign nation" in Egypt, Malta and Tunisia.

Leahy Begins Vichy Duties

VICHY, France, Jan. 6 (AP)—Admiral William D. Leahy, new United States ambassador to France, began work at his desk in the chancellery today after arriving last night through one of southern France's worst snow storms in years.

He called on Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin in his first official visit to present credentials and request an appointment with Chief of State Petain.

Petain probably will receive Leahy at his official residence, Sevigne Pavillion, and arrange formal ceremonies for tomorrow or Wednesday.

The man on the street expressed interest and pleasure in the new ambassador's arrival, but the government maintained a cautious silence.

ITALIANS NOT TOLD OF BARDIA

ROME, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Italian high command reported today that "more strongholds on the Bardia front have fallen into British hands in Libya," but did not mention the fate of Bardia itself.

The high command communique said the strongholds fell "after strenuous resistance by our troops who inflicted considerable losses on the enemy."

The communique reported the "battle continued furiously on the Bardia front from morning to evening yesterday" and added that the Italian air force "continued to lavish its aid" to the Fascist ground forces.

British planes were said to have bombed Italian bases in Libya "without causing damage." Loss of one Italian plane was acknowledged.

British warships shelled the coast of Somaliland in Italian East Africa, the High Command declared.

Italian planes were said to have bombed three of the ships, two cruisers and an auxiliary vessel.

British air raids were reported, too, on Italian bases in Somaliland and Eritrea. One of the raiders was said to have been shot down.

British patrols were reported repulsed "with losses" in actions along the Sudanese frontier.

THE SMOKE'S THE THING!

THE SMOKE OF SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVES YOU

EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR

AND—

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested — less than any of them — according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

"SMOKING OUT" THE FACTS about nicotine. Experts, chemists—and intricate laboratory machines—analyze the smoke of 5 of the largest-selling brands...find that the smoke of slower-burning Camels contains 28% less nicotine than the average of the other brands tested—less than any of them!

YES, the smoke's the thing! After all, you don't get anything from a cigarette until you've lighted it...until it's burning. And there is the secret of an advantage Camel smokers have enjoyed for years. For Camel's costlier tobaccos are slower-burning.

Slower-burning for more coolness and mildness—for Camels are free from the excess heat and irritating qualities of too-fast burning. Slower-burning for more flavor because slow burning preserves tobacco flavor and fragrance.

Now Science confirms still another advantage—Camel's slower burning means less nicotine in the smoke—less than any of the four other largest-selling brands tested...28% less than the average!

Yes, when you measure the pleasure of a cigarette...the smoke's the thing. Make Camels your steady smoke and enjoy all the advantages that only Camel's slower burning...costlier tobaccos can give. There's even an economy advantage (see left).

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to

Nine British Captives Help Seize Axis Ship

WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, Jan. 6 (AP)—Nine British soldiers—captives aboard a 100-ton Italian schooner—helped an Australian destroyer seize the craft and take it to an Egyptian port with 115 Italians imprisoned below deck, the destroyer commander reported today.

The destroyer intercepted the Italian boat on the night of Dec. 29 and fired a warning shot to halt it.

When the destroyer's searchlight was flashed on the boat, the captain said, he saw a British sergeant dash up a hatchway and bowl over an Italian guard. Eight other Englishmen followed and battened down the hatches upon 100 Italian soldiers and 15 sailors.

Then, the Australian officer said the erstwhile captives compelled the Italian commander to make his vessel follow the destroyer to Solum, first stage of a journey for the Italians to an internment camp in Egypt.

The British troops described as "apparently the only ones the Italians ever captured," were being taken in the schooner to Tobruk, Libya, "for show pieces," the Australian commander asserted.

RED CHIEFS PARLEY ON BALKANS

BUDAPEST, Jan. 6 (AP) Soviet Russia's ministers to Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Hungary sped to Moscow today reportedly for Kremlin consultations on Germany's ever-increasing military might in the Balkans.

The summoning of the [illegible] was taken here as the [illegible] nite evidence the Russ[illegible] given of their interest in the [illegible] scale German troop movements of the last week.

Forty troop trains a day have moved across Hungary into Rumania, which was cut off entirely from communication with the outside world early today.

In some Soviet circles in the Balkans it was reported that Moscow already has warned Berlin against a "step which might seriously endanger good relations" between Russia and Germany and Soviet quarters in Belgrade said the summoning of the ministers definitely was linked with the "new military developments in Rumania and Hungary."

Ominous Silence Continues in Berlin

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—This week began in Berlin with a continuance of that ominous silence in authorized quarters, already noticeable last week, which strikingly reminded old-timers among foreign correspondents of similar periods of silence such as that preceding the beginning of the air battle of London last August.

All questions regarding troop movements in the Balkans were ruled out as referring to military secrets, hence discussion of them was taboo.

Coupled with these refusals to discuss troop movements were the usual denials, for instance the statement that 'Balkan reports that German troops will occupy Bulgaria peacefully Jan. 8 are too silly for rejoinder; reports of King Boris III of Bulgaria coming to Germany are without foundation."

KUNMING BOMBED AGAIN

Greeks Report Further Gains

ATHENS, Jan. 6 (AP)—"Considerable" Greek gains despite Italian counter-attacks at several points were reported today in dispatches from the coastal sector.

Italian resistance was sharp and the fighting was harder than in recent days.

A Greek government spokesman's statement that Italian strategy is to "take advantage of weather conditions and reinforcements from Italy to improve the situation or delay the Greek advance" was echoed by Italian prisoners, most of them fresh troops recently arrived from Italy.

The Greek Air Force was reported active in low-flying bombing and machine-gun attacks.

Cream Barred in New Italian Rationing

ROME, Jan. 6 (AP)—Effective Wednesday, cream is forbidden to Italians under the first new rationing order issued by Giuseppe Tassinari, agriculture minister and food dictator.

days ago and our papers say it was a PURE ACCIDENT (due, I believe, to the torrential rains doing something to the track).

Well, the paper quotes the German News Agency as saying it was caused by a direct hit by a bomb on a troop train!"

NOVEMBER 4

The troop train part because there were, of course, lots of troops on it. It was the Paddington to Plymouth Express. Aren't they the limit?

It was awful bad luck: twenty-six killed and fifty injured, and this in the pouring rain and pitch darkness of early morning, but they said everybody behaved marvelously, and there was no panic at all.

This is being written in installments! It is really meant to be my Christmas letter to you; it will be a bit early, but they take so long to get through these days.

I hope you will get it safely. We hope you will all spend a very happy and peaceful time, and we both send you our fondest love and wishes. We, over here, hope to celebrate Christmas, too, even if not quite as usual.

PLENTY OF CARDS

The shops have plenty of Christmas cards, and we are to be allowed crackers, too, and puddings — or rather the fruit with which to make them.

The prices of things are terrible, but we can get all we need, so far, so we have to be and ARE thankful for that. The chief trouble is that there are so many evacuees in all the fairly safe areas, and they buy up everything. Here, for example, the population has increased from 14,000 to nearly 22,000.

I'll bet you've been having an exciting time with your election, haven't you? I'm most awfully glad F. D. R. has got in again.

As for coming into the war, I think, at the moment, you can help us better by staying out. It's wonderfully comforting to feel we've got you behind us, and I echo Mr. Churchill's words, "God defend the right!" And surely we are in the right about this.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS!

I'm so glad you can get London news on your new radio. I do wish we could run to one just for the news and any important announcements, but in these days of everything going up in price, it takes one all one's time to live at all on a fixed income.

I've a feeling that I've lots more things I wanted to tell you, but can't remember any of 'em now! Well, good-by, my dear. Happy Christmas, and write soon. Our fondest love to you all. Yours as ever, MARJORIE

(Miss Marjorie Gordon Hogg.)

Another letter from bomb-torn England to the United States will be printed in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

LABOR BOARD WINS HIGH COURT RULING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Supreme Court held today that the Labor Board has authority to require a company to sign a written contract with a labor organization in the event an agreement is reached concerning employment conditions.

Justice Stone delivered the decision in a case brought by the H. J. Heinz company of Pittsburgh to test the board's authority under the Wagner Labor Act. No dissent was announced. Justice McReynolds did not participate.

AGREEMENT IN EFFECT

The company contended an agreement reached with a local union of the canning and pickle workers (A. F. of L.) had been "reduced to writing in the form of an official bulletin and posted on the bulletin boards."

It said the agreement was still in effect and that the obligations of the Wagner Act had been met. The Labor Board ordered, the company contended, constituted a "command to make a substitute contract."

The sixth federal court, in upholding the board's order, ruled that the company's refusal to sign a contract amounted to a refusal to bargain. Contrary decisions have been delivered by other circuit courts.

MUST DISBAND UNIONS

The board also directed the company to disestablish the Heinz Employes Association, a union of company employes, even though the company already had recognized the canning and pickle workers following an election.

The court also held today that a federal district court, which has decided litigation in conformity with existing state law, should enjoin its decision if the state law is subsequently altered.

OUSTED IN NIGHTIE, SUING WIFE SAYS

One favorite diversion of her husband, Mrs. Florence M. Hazel of Stickney st., West Lynn, testified today in Salem Probate Court, was locking her out of the house—even when she wore only a nightgown and it was winter.

She sought a divorce from Arthur I. Hazel of Saugus on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, with Judge John V. Phelan taking her case and others under advisement.

KICKED OUT OF BED

It was only six weeks after their marriage, May 1, 1937, Mrs. Hazel testified, that Arthur came home under the influence of liquor and kicked her out of bed.

This time he didn't bar her from the house, she said, but later he locked her out when she returned from the movies, and again he thrust her out in her nightgown on a February night.

This last, she said, was after he had picked up the six-week-old boy and had threatened to throw him out the window, and Mrs. Hazel had wrestled the boy from him.

Mrs. Arleen Witwicki of Boston st., Salem, a waitress, charged John Witwicki, a Salem orchestra leader, with cruel and abusive treatment and testified that on a few occasions her face was "smashed up" by him.

BROUGHT ANOTHER HOME

Married Jan. 31, 1934, she walked out, she said, when he brought another woman home with him at 2:35 a.m. She testified they both were intoxicated when they entered his bedroom.

An attachment of her divorce contracted at Oldtown, Me., on May 20, 1939, was sought by Mrs. Lizzie Adams Hewlett of Newburyport, daughter of a Newburyport policeman.

She testified that she married Walter Hewlett of Newburyport, unknowingly, before he had the legal right followig his wife's securing of a divorce, but left him as soon as she learned of this.

Before the break-up, however, Wife No. 1 used to jeer the witness and her baby on the street, the witness declared, and frequently visited Hewlett at the house.

Mrs. Hewlett said her husband secured a marriage license last Aug. 29 to remarry his first wife but has not done so yet.

Paul Curley Sued for Divorce

now employed as a gasoline truck assistant for contractors erecting government barracks at Fort Devens.

The papers were filed with Register Arthur W. Sullivan by Attys. William S. Kinney, Mrs. Curley's counsel. They are returnable in 21 days.

Copies of the Florida papers in the case were enclosed with the petition. In these the acts of alleged cruelty are described as "cheating with [illegible] women, carousing before friends and other exhibitions of an abnormal temper."

HAD ASKED $150 WEEKLY

In her Florida suit Mrs. Curley asked for $150 a week, declaring that Paul had an interest in a radio station and held 50,000 shares in his father's gold mine ventures. The Court Governor when the declaration was made, scoffed at it, saying his son had stock in neither enterprise.

Mrs. Curley's statement today that the wedding took place in Mount Ridge, N. Y., Dec. 20, 1936, came as a surprise, inasmuch as the wedding was originally announced to have been at Holy Cross Church, New York, Dec. 24, 1936.

First reports that the youngest Curley and his showgirl bride had come to a parting of the ways were made in the spring of 1939 and there were continual denials and new reports for nearly a year. The Florida divorce was asked in April, 1940.

5 Named in Plot Hatched in Bird House

Detectives from police headquarters today declared that they had uncovered a plot hatched in the bird house at Franklin Park by which the city was defrauded of $800 in welfare funds.

Warrants naming five men in 13 counts of larceny were issued. Thefts it was alleged extended from August 1939 to May 1940.

Those involved, detectives said, had used a rubber stamp certifying they had worked in and around the bird house on certain days when they had not worked.

Then, it was charged, these workers decided that was too much trouble so they stole the stamp and kept on using it.

GAINARD CHARGES FOREIGNERS RULE SEA UNION

Evening American: Joe Gainard joins the merchant marine; the War comes; he gets his "ticket," and he tells the inside story of the Algic mutiny).

(In tomorrow's Boston

ominously significant way men of his type boil.

"The founders of this country never intended that any particular group should tell a man he has to join their organization to go to work or that he cannot work if he is in an organization."

In avoiding mention of any particular person or group, the captain feels that "the thing is a cut bigger than that, and that there are perhaps people who think they are doing the merchant marine a service for good, yet the result is quite the reverse."

He has never met Harry Bridges or Joe Curran or any of the higher officials of their organization because there never has been occasion to them to meet, his friends say.

Questioned about these men, the keen-eyed, spare-built six-foot mariner merely says:

"I've seen them. I don't know them. I do not know their real names."

Of the fact that there are thousands of seamen now members of the National Maritime Union who share his opinion about "foreign influences," Capt. Gainard is convinced, as he explains:

"I firmly believe that many of the members of the association would welcome a chance to get into something different, if they had something different to get into, but they're forced to join and forced to stay in it if they want to hold a job.

GONE FAR BEYOND

"It's a fine state of affairs. I am no anti-union man, either. Put that down. I just think that organizations for labor have gone far and away beyond what unions were meant to be.

"When unions started, they started to train the apprentice to be a skilled worker, whether he was a machinist or a carpenter or a seaman, and to make it possible for him to remain at work.

"That was the job they undertook and that was the job they did in the beginning. The apprentice was paid while he was learning his trade and that was as it should be.

"Then he worked with a skilled man until he became skilled enough to be on his own. Employers everywhere were looking for that kind of a man and the unions were producing them.

"Everyone wanted the best shop or the best ship and the way to insure himself of getting what he wanted was to hire the best men—the union men."

FIRST CLASH

He draws a deep breath at this point, and without any question about whom he means, demands:

"Do you think that many organizations, afloat or ashore, have that idea today?"

Many persons will recall the first clash Capt. Gainard had with the National Maritime Union in 1937 on the eventful cruise of the freighter Algic, a 9000-ton ship owned by the U. S. Maritime Commission.

That was the summer when Joe Curran was growing to considerable stature in waterfront circles and all through the United States sit-down strikes were quite the fashion.

National Maritime Union leaders in the Algic's crew, after an outbound trip featured by desertions deaths and general friction between the master and themselves, staged a so-called "sit-down" in the harbor of Montevideo, Uruguay.

It was the leaders of the insurrection who called it a "strike." Capt. Gainard had another word for it.

So did Boston's Joseph P. Kennedy, recent ambassador to the Court of St. James, but at that time chairman of the Maritime Commission.

Mutiny" was the word!

"Tell the ringleaders you'll put them in irons if they don't call it off," Kennedy advised Capt. Gainard over long-distance telephone.

To Capt. Gainard it had come as a distinct surprise that any group would support men who would break their signed articles of agreement during the progress of a voyage.

It had never been made clear to him that sit-down strikes anywhere were legal and it was not expected that there would be any such incident as there was arising out of the Algic affair.

Numerous unwarrantable desertions, complaints and general friction were not, as he understood it, to be condoned by any organization and such actions, in his opinion made it difficult for officials, whether of the organizations or of the company, to come to a reasonable understanding.

With the Algic sit-down, Capt. Gainard called in the United States consul, who carefully explained to the crew the "error" they were committing.

There was, of course, that message from Joe Kennedy, and before the day was out the sit-down was over.

Capt. Gainard felt that he was finished with it and regretted that any of those who had been aboard on previous voyages should have been found in error. He believes that the splendid officers and crews of the merchant marine far exceed what he calls troublesome "one-trippers."

14 ARRESTED

When the Algic made home port in Baltimore, 14 of the insurrectionists were arrested and subsequently convicted of "inciting a revolt against the authority of the captain."

"Yet every one of these men had a job when I last heard of them," Capt. Gainard recalls today. "And the members of my crew who were subpoenaed as witnesses, and who as honest men, had only the choice of telling the truth—these men can't get jobs."

Curran, at the time of the Algic incident, decided the time wasn't quite ripe to call a general strike against government-owned ships, but he gave his whole-hearted indorsement to the Baltimore unit of the National Maritime Union which raised a howl over the arrests of "strike" leaders.

"We'll get Kennedy's scalp for this," Curran blustered, "and we'll get it soon."

As everyone knows, Curran and the NMU failed to get the Kennedy scalp, but the NMU was only having growing pains, then; it wasn't the boss outfit it is today.

Capt. Gainard has his own solution for weeding out what he calls the "foreign influences" and "drift wood" in the ranks of sea-going men, and while he admits that it would be a long-range program, he is willing to argue out its feasibility. He explains as he goes along.

No neophyte in marine circles the captain has rounded the 50-year mark and with half of these years in posts of command, he thinks he knows a little something about handling a ship and about the men who man them.

FINEST SEAMEN

He thinks he knows how men feel about their captains and he knows how he feels about the finest body of seamen in the world—the United States seamen.

"When I say the finest body of seamen in the world, I mean it," he declares vehemently. "That bars no nation. If they were allowed to be seamen they'd be making more pay than they are getting now, and steamship companies would still be making more money."

Capt. Gainard is going back into Navy service in another month or so, with the rank of lieutenant commander. He will probably take the bridge of a United States transport, but he didn't walk into that kind of a job. He came up the hard way, too.

NYA Assigns 1000 to Shops

With more than 1000 boys assigned to shops by noon, the National Youth Administration head quarters and employment offices in Boston had its biggest rush today.

A few days ago local administrator, John L. Donovan, Jr., announced that the rolls would be increased this month by 15,000 to 20,000 youths for training in the workshops as machinists, lathe operators, sheet metal workers, foundrymen and other pursuits allied to defense industries.

Since the defense program got under way the NYA offices have had numerous requests from factories and plants for semi-skilled help.

After the first 1000 had been passed today at the Park Square Building the offices were still crowded with applicants.

Minister Given Citizen Oath On Stretcher

Flat on his back on a stretcher, right arm raised high to take the oath, the Rev. Robert A. Miller, a patient at Holy Ghost Hospital, Cambridge, held a place of honor immediately in front of the court when Judge Hugh D. McLellan administered the oath of citizenship to 350 men and women in U. S. District Court today.

The Rev. Mr. Miller was brought to the Federal Building in an ambulance and taken to the court room by a back passage, the route tattered in returning him to the hospital.

Mr. Miller was born in South Shields, England, on George Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1895. He entered this country at Vanceboro, Me., Aug. 30, 1929. On his application for first papers he gave his address as 17 Broad st., Lynn, and stated he was connected with the Church of the Incarnation.

The others taking the oath of citizenship were principally women, the majority of British or Canadian birth.

Citizenship was denied only one man, whose name was withheld, for the reason that he failed to observe the Alien Registration Act, and register by Dec. 26 last.

All Britain Steeled To Crush Invasion

Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles giving a close-up picture of England's immediate situation, without the handicap of censorship, by William McGaffin, Associated Press correspondent who has just returned from covering the war in both France and England.)

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—One of the French stenographers in our office in Paris got so panicky when war was declared that she tossed up her job and bolted for the country.

George Angus, veteran telegrapher in our London office, got blown clear across the roof by concussion from a nearby land mine a few nights before I left town. Unhurt, he picked himself up and came back down to work as though nothing had happened.

There, in the contrast between Latin emotion and British phlegm lies part of the story of the French defeat.

In fairness to the French, it should be emphasized that their morale was pretty good throughout the entire "phony war" period. I know, because I watched it.

The stenographer's reaction, however, was typical of how they all blew up when the Germans pierced the extension of the Maginot Line—that vaunted defense works they had been taught was "impregnable."

AN EARLY SIGN

One of the first indications I had that military morale was cracking was that May day when a grimy, roadstained soldier shoped in the back door of my apartment and asked for Yvonne, the maid. It was Albert, her husband.

He had deserted along with some 6000 other tank corps men and fled to Paris after a disastrous encounter with the Germans at Namur, Belgium.

"They told us the Belgians were up there holding the line," he said. "When we got there there was no one but Germans."

As the Germans pressed relentlessly on, the panic spread to the civilian population. Even Josette, who kept the little bistro below the office, managed to find a seat on one of the long string of mattress-topped cars that clogged the southbound highways so that they were often unusable for swift military transport.

It was not the fault of the French people. They had been led by their press and politicians to believe they were sitting pretty behind the tough Maginot line. When the break came, bewilderment and frustration were the [illegible]

BRITISH PROFIT

The British have profited from this French mistake. British newspapers and [illegible] take the opposite tack, warning against overconfidence and unfounded optimism.

Nor will British people be elated with retreats if England ever is invaded. The high command has issued rigid orders which it is prepared to carry out ruthlessly forcing everyone to stay put wherever he may be.

Many of the French were machine-gunned and bombed on the roads. The British understand they will not only be helping their soldiers but they actually will be safer staying in their homes if the emergency arises.

In further keeping with this idea, the British have refused to declare any of their cities "open" cities as the French did. In other words, they will not surrender anyone of them without a fight. Churchill or London will be defended street by street and the British say that goes for every town.

Dive bombers caused only [illegible] civilian casualties in France. To a certain extent that goes for ordinary bombing. Englishmen have learned how to restrain their fears and stand up to night after night of aerial punishment.

The British army has done better than this. It has borrowed the Germans' own methods with apparent success in the British blitz against Germany's Italian ally in the Mediterranean.

Parachute troops were a menace with which the French were inadequately prepared to cope. They hastily improvised a shotgun army at the eleventh hour. The British have had time to perfect an elaborate home guard organization. "Join the home guard and guard your home" is its slogan. That is exactly what it is intended to do.

Like the American National Guard, the British Home Guard is composed of the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker who work at their regular jobs in the daytime and devote spare hours in the evening to military drill. They are on constant call in their own and neighboring towns.

Parachutists themselves were not so great a menace in France as the fear they provoked among the population. I remember one day when the Paris police were flooded with "warning" that parachutists were descending on the city. One woman swore she could see a man's legs dangling in front of her window.

The Germans encouraged these scares. They went even further with the British. They dropped empty parachutes, cases of maps and other paraphernalia in an effort to convince John Bull that flocks of parachute troops were being [illegible] John was not taken in.

The French never succeeded in curbing the Fifth Column. They arrested working class Communists who might otherwise have been won over to the cause, and left some leaders free to spread defeatism.

NEVER UNDERSTOOD

[illegible]

One of the greatest advantages the British have over the French is the superiority complex bred into them from school days on. It's been responsible for it less passed a more stalwart people in war.

This, I believe, is one of the two big reasons for the terrific British morale.

"There's always been an England—therefore there'll always be one," they say.

The other reason is the way they have managed to readjust their lives to blitz conditions. It helps them take the bombs with a smile.

Like the Cockney cop who with incongruous humor was recounting a story of his son's experience.

"I have the silliest son. I can't get him to come in out of the raids. The other night we all went to the Anderson (garden shelter) and he kept sticking his head out. Finally I said to him 'come in here you silly goof and give the stuff a chance to fall.'"

(Tomorrow: How is labor faring in war-fraught Britain?)

COMPLETE TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—Following is the text of the annual message on the "State of the Union" delivered by President Roosevelt before the Congress today.

To the Congress of the United States:

I address you, the members of the 77th Congress, at a moment unprecedented in the history of the Union. I use the word "unprecedented" because at no previous time has American security been as seriously threatened from without as it is today.

Since the permanent formation of our government under the Constitution, in 1789, most of the periods of crisis in our history have related to our domestic affairs. Fortunately, only one of these—the four-year war between the States—ever threatened our national unity. Today, thank God, 130,000,000 Americans in 48 states, have forgotten points of the compass in our national unity.

It is true that prior to 1914 the United States often had been disturbed by events in other continents. We had even engaged in two wars with European nations and in a number of undeclared wars in the West Indies, in the Mediterranean and in the Pacific for the maintenance of American rights and for the principles of peaceful commerce. In no case, however, had a serious threat been raised against our national safety or our independence

What I seek to convey is the fact that the United States as a nation has at no time been dominated by the conscious desire of those people who had their genesis here and their growth among the vast bulk of the population and the resources of the whole of the Western Hemisphere many times over.

In times like these it is immature—and incidentally unwise—for us to indulge in the unwarranted assumption that an unprepared America, single handed, and with one hand tied behind its back, can hold off the whole world.

BEWARE OF APPEASERS

No one sane American can expect from a dictator's peace international generosity, or return of true friendship, or good will toward mankind, or freedom of expression, or freedom of religion, or even good business.

Such a peace would bring no security for us or for our neighbors. "Those, who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety, deserve neither liberty nor safety."

As a nation we may take pride in the fact that we are soft-hearted but we cannot afford to be soft-headed.

We must always be wary of those who with soothing bland and ingratiating subtle preach the doctrine of appeasement.

We must especially beware of that small group of selfish men who would clip the wings of the American Eagle in order to feather their own nests.

Even when the World War broke out in 1914 it seemed to many people a remote thing indeed. To many it seemed impossible that a war could actually touch the United States. Few relatively realized the significance to them of the downfall of democracy in country after country in Europe. As a result of one indifference, assisted and encouraged by the organized forces of Fascism and Nazism, one country after another fell victim to the aggressor nations, until finally the assault came to our own doorstep.

We need not overemphasize imperfections in the peace of Versailles. We need not harp on the mistakes of the democracies to deal with problems of world reconstruction.

We should remember that the peace of 1919 was accepted by the vast majority of the American people as a good peace. It provided a actual basis for a workable relationship between nations. Certainly it provided a better basis for such relationship than exists today, when no such basis exists.

The disarmament provisions of the Washington Conference of 1921 were generally welcomed throughout the world. Some of the provisions of the Versailles Treaty relating to the limitation of armaments were forward steps in the right direction.

Most of the statesmen who participated in drafting those provisions sincerely believed that they were contributing toward a condition of security in which nations could live in peace with one another; in which the weak could live without fear of the strong.

The value of those provisions was destroyed by the failure of the important nations to observe their agreements. Moreover, the seeds of the present war were sown by the failure to remove the economic injustices which were the inevitable consequence of the Versailles Treaty.

Many people in many countries failed to realize that the continuance of peace depended upon the maintenance of a balance of power among nations. They failed to realize that a balance of power was essential to the security of every nation, including their own.

Failure to maintain that balance of power was the result of a number of factors.

THE FIRST BLOW

The first blow was struck by Japan when she invaded Manchuria. Then Italy invaded Ethiopia. Then Germany and Italy intervened in Spain. Then Germany, Italy and Russia partitioned Poland. Then Russia invaded Finland. Then Germany overran Denmark and Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium and France.

Each of these steps was taken in violation of treaties and of international law. Each of these steps was taken against nations which were not prepared for war and which were not expecting attack.

Each of these steps was taken by nations which had prepared for war over a period of years.

The first phase of the invasion of this hemisphere would not be the landing of regular troops. The necessary strategic points would be occupied by secret agents and their dupes—and great numbers of them are already here, and in Latin America.

As long as the aggressor nations maintain the offensive, they—not we will choose the time and the place and the method of their attack.

That is why the future of all American republics today is in serious danger.

That is why this annual message to the Congress is unique in our history.

ALL OUT DEFENSE

That is why every member of the executive branch of the government and every member of the Congress face great responsibility and great accountability.

The need of the moment is that our actions and our policy should be devoted primarily—almost exclusively—to meeting this foreign peril. For all our domestic problems are now a part of the great emergency.

Just as our national policy in international affairs has been based upon a decent respect for the rights and dignity of all nine fellowmen within our gates so our national policy in foreign affairs has been based on a decent respect for the rights and safety of all nations, large and small. And the justice of this cause is bound to win in the end.

Our national policy is this:

First, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to all-inclusive national defense.

Second, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to the support with all the resources at our command of all those resolute peoples, everywhere in the world, who are resisting aggression and are thereby keeping our war away from our hemisphere. By this support, we express our determination that the democratic cause shall prevail; and we strengthen the defense and security of our own nation.

Third, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to the proposition that principles of morality and considerations for our own security will never permit us to acquiesce in a peace dictated by aggressors and sponsored by appeasers. We know that enduring peace cannot be bought at the cost of other people's freedom.

In the recent national election there was no substantial difference between the two great parties in respect to that national policy. No issue was fought out on this line before the American electorate. Today, it is abundantly evident that American citizens everywhere are demanding and supporting speedy and complete action in recognition of obvious danger.

Therefore, the immediate need is a swift and driving increase in our armament production.

Leaders of industry and labor have responded to our summons. Goals of speed have been set. In some cases these goals are being reached ahead of time, in some cases we are on schedule; in other cases there are slight but not serious delays, and in some cases and I am sorry to say very important cases—we are all concerned by the slowness of the accomplishment of our plans.

The Army and the Navy, however, have made substantial progress during the past year. Actual experience is improving and speeding up our methods of production with every passing day. And today's best is not good enough for tomorrow.

I am not satisfied with the progress thus far made. The men in charge of the programs represent the best in training, ability and patriotism. They are not satisfied with the progress thus far made. None of us will be satisfied until the job is done.

No matter whether the output goal was set too high or too low, our objective is quicker and better results.

To give two illustrations:

We are behind schedule in turning out finished airplanes; we are working day and night to solve the unforeseen problems and to catch up.

We are ahead of schedule in building warships but we are working to get even further ahead of schedule.

To change a whole nation from a basis of peace-time production of implements of peace to a basis of wartime production of implements of war is no small task. And the greatest difficulty comes at the beginning of the program, when new tools and plant facilities and new assembly lines and ship ways must first be constructed before the actual material begins to flow steadily and speedily from them.

The Congress of course, must rightly keep itself informed at all times of the progress of the program. However, there is certain information, as the Congress itself will readily recognize, which, in the interest of our own security and those of the nations we are supporting, must of needs be kept in confidence.

NO MAN-POWER NEEDED

New circumstances are constantly beginning new needs for our safety. I shall ask this Congress for greatly increased new appropriations and authorizations to carry on what we have begun.

I also ask this Congress for authority and for funds sufficient to manufacture additional munitions and war supplies of many kinds, to be turned over to those nations which are now in actual war with aggressor nations.

Our most useful and immediate role is to act as an arsenal for them as well as for ourselves. They do not need man power. They do need billions of dollars' worth of the weapons of defense.

The time is near when they will not be able to pay for them in ready cash. We cannot, and will not, tell them they must surrender, merely because of present inability to pay for the weapons which we know they must have.

I do not recommend that we make them a loan of dollars with which to pay for these weapons—a loan to be repaid in dollars.

I recommend that we make it possible for those nations to continue to obtain war materials in the United States, fitting their orders into our own program. Nearly all of their material, would, if the time ever came, be useful for our own defense.

WHAT IS REQUIRED

The Chief of Staff of the Army and the Chief of Naval Operations have reported to me the munitions required to meet the present needs of the nations actually at war against the aggressors. They have made clear the overwhelming importance of early delivery of the munitions listed in their reports.

I have, therefore, directed that these reports be processed immediately and submitted to the Congress.

Additional details as to the implements of war and the other articles required will be submitted to the Congress as soon as they can be computed.

Some of the material is already here; more of it will be coming from our factories every day. Some of it we have not got. But you may be sure that we will get it.

These plans also call for the immediate addition of many thousands of workers to the airplane factories, shipyards, arsenals and munitions plants.

Additional legislation will be required to carry out the details of this program. Some statutes need clarification. Others need to be changed to remove obstacles to speed.

I shall not recommend the repeal of any of the laws which history has shown are effective in protecting the wages, the working conditions and the standards of living of our workers.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the support which our farmers are receiving at present.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the effectiveness of our social security system.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the activities of our public works and relief agencies.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the benefits and opportunities which are available to our citizens in the form of free education.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the health activities of the federal government.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the opportunities for recreation provided by the federal government.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the development of our water power and our natural resources.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the conservation of our soil resources.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the opportunities for home ownership.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the security of bank deposits.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the sacredness of the ballot.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the freedom of religious worship.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the right of assemblage and the right of petition.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the right of trial by jury.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against unreasonable searches and seizures.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against double jeopardy.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against self-incrimination.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against excessive bail.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against cruel and unusual punishment.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against ex post facto laws.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against imprisonment for debt.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against involuntary servitude.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against abridgment of the rights of citizens to vote because of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against the establishment of any religion.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against the abridgment of the rights of citizens to vote because of sex.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against the establishment of any state church.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against the abridgment of the rights of citizens to vote because of failure to pay any tax.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against the establishment of any religious test for public office.

I shall not recommend any action which would in any way reduce the protection against the establishment of any religious test for the right to vote.

IF DEMOCRACY IS TO survive and flourish in this world of new ideologies, it should aim to be guided by its intelligence, not by its unreasoning emotions.

In order to make the nation strong in national defense, it is desirable to free the national economy from business baiting in all forms.

Industrial efficiency is currently impaired by a confused and demagogic tax structure.

Not only is government spending too much, but it is also pursuing a needlessly destructive tax policy.

The new excess profits tax, for example, was linked with the political demand that there should be no war-time millionaires.

While the public accepted the measure in the mistaken belief that it was aimed only at the big fellow, it falls with especial hardship on smaller companies and on small investors.

Exposing the fatuity of this anti-social tax legislation, A. Wilfred May, economist, in the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, reveals:

"Penalizing smallness rather than bigness is one of many ways in which excess profits taxation actually if unwittingly contravenes social objectives which are otherwise being so ardently pursued.

"Although the tax is thought of as a sort of retribution inflicted on big business, in practice it will wreak greater hardship on the smaller companies and individual investors.

"As the shareholders really pay the taxes which are levied on their corporations, the size of a company has no relation to its owners' individual wealth . . . Since the average individual holding in the larger companies is less than in the smaller ones, by its discriminatory provision against corporate size the new law actually penalizes the run of smaller stockholders."

THE ACT also hits hard the new and experimental small businesses which are always long on energy, imagination and courage while short on capital. Such companies, if they succeed, inevitably show a high ratio of earnings to capital, and they under this law are the main targets for punitive taxation.

And even worse is the fact that wrong principles behind the law encourage business managers to give up prudent habits and to adopt wasteful ones for the period of the emergency.

Such legislation is based on "screwball" economics.

As Mr. May puts it, "excess profits taxation with its semi-confiscation of 'above-normal' earnings will entail business extravagance and mismanagement."

In other words, the demagogic politician, in seeking to soak the rich has again missed his target. He has only succeeded in reducing the effectiveness of American industry.

The immediate need is to recodify, simplify and improve the technique of the current tax legislation, and the longer term need is to reduce government spending in the aggregate and thus relieve the citizen from exploitation by legalized "semi-confiscation."

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE will learn with consternation that under the selective training and service act avowed enemies of our institutions may be accepted for duty in the army and air force.

These enemies are Communists and Bundists.

Paragraph 326 of that act says:

"The entire administration of the selective service law shall be impartial and free from any political influences. There shall be no discrimination for or against any person because of his race, creed or color, or because of his membership or activity in any labor, political, religious or other organization."

Note "because of his membership or activity in ANY political organization."

Official army spokesmen, according to the "New York Times," who were asked specifically about Communist and bundist party members said: "They would be accepted on a par with others certified by the selective service board."

This subversive "sleeper" in the selective service act ties the hands of the army because a man passed by the service boards will not be questioned as to his loyalty to the flag by army officials.

On the same day that this astounding piece of news was made public a Gallup nation-wide poll revealed that 63 PER CENT of those polled said that Communist candidates SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED ANY TIME AT ALL on the radio.

Thus a people that believes that the Reds should be banished from the radio are to stand idly by and see selective service boards deliberately put these Reds, and bundists also, in the uniform of the U. S. A., where they can begin their sabotage.

It is not too late for Congress to amend the selective service act providing for the exclusion of all those in the draft who belong to ANY organization that is of alien origin or under foreign control and of those whose opinions are opposed to our form of government.

NOW SAY YOU want to keep your weight down. First thing to do is to get a bathroom scale. My weight hasn't varied three pounds in six months and I feel I owe much in this respect to the bathroom scale my girl friend won playing bingo at Asbury Park, N. J. . . . Marlene Dietrich's real name is Mary Magdalene Von Losch . . . A history debunker with a mean disposition says the late Pocahontas didn't die of a broken-heart but from smallpox . . . Have you forgotten Nita Naldi? I haven't. What an "oomph" girl Nita was? And how about Betty Blythe and Barbara La Marr? Do you remember Russ Colombo? I do. My favorite crooner of all time. Have you any recollections of Harry Blitman? Ah, what an exponent Harry was of the manly art of self-defense. Recall Roger Bresnahan? Can you name a better all-around ball player than "Rajah" was? Remember the musical show "The Student Prince"? I saw it nine times Is there anybody present recalls a horse named Advance Guard? Who recalls Jeffrey Farnol's book "The Broad Highway," Holbrook Blinn in "The Play's the Thing" or Adele Genee in "The Soul Kiss"?

ALONZO STAGG is my choice for the greatest all-time football coach because while he has had his share of victories he has never lost sight of fact the chief aim of college athletics is to develop the characters of the participants . . . "It's easy to get a man," states California feminine client. "But it certainly is hard to get rid of a man when you don't want the darn fool around you any more." Perhaps somebody should write an article "How to Get Rid of a Man" . . . For years some medicos suggested the pulling of teeth as an aid to the cure of a wide variety of ailments. As to this one prominent physician has stated: "The value of pulling teeth as a cure is only a theory—but you can't put the teeth back." . . . "I had my fortieth birthday yesterday and I am so depressed," writes a feminine client. Aw, come on, lady, don't be that way. Longevity experts say a woman of 40 can count on at least 33 years more of life. An intelligent woman of 40 should be able to make herself look 30. And to discerning men of experience good looking women of 40 are on the preferred list for companions.

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Sunday—I reached New York City Friday afternoon just in time to be faced by a battery of cameras while I had my last fittings for three new dresses. Then Mrs. George Backer and Mr. John Rothschild, of the "Open Road," came to see me.

Mrs. Henry Morthenthau, Jr., came in from the country so we could go together to: "Flight from the West," by Elmer Rice. The casting and acting of the play are really remarkable. You feel as though you had been on the Clipper yourself and met and talked with the group of people who took the flight.

As a play, it lacks something which keeps it from being really great, but as a group of characterizations, it is extremely interesting and I think that anyone will feel that he has spent an evening which is well worth while. The successful oil man from Texas would be rather amusing if he were not rather terrifying. I wonder how many people really think it is smart to do business with a man who stands for everything that is opposed to the original American conception of democracy and freedom.

It seems to me a little like the doctrine: "The devil, himself is an amazing fellow so long as I can get the best of him." Since, in business, some of us think we are abler than the rest of the world, we think it is safe to traffic even with those who represent all we hate and fear.

I READ Mr. Archibald MacLeish's article yesterday in the survey graphic, and I grow to believe every day with greater conviction the truth he sets forth. America is not a pile of goods, more luxury, more comforts, a better telephone system, a greater number of cars. America is a dream of greater justice and opportunity for the average man and, if we can not obtain it, all our other achievements amount to nothing.

Even to dream, one must have a basis of economic security, and the dream is worth little if it can not provide that. Devotion to democracy, devotion to liberty, what we call patriotism, depends upon the realization of such conditions in our country as really give us the opportunity and hope for future dreams.

I drove up to Hyde Park yesterday morning and the drive along the parkway was like a fairyland. Later I returned to New York

The weather had cleared and the moon shone, so I knew that I could make the 10:30 plane back to Washington. I spent the evening with a friend in New York City, and had the joy of listening to some inspiring and beautiful song records. The "Ballad for Americans," which belong so typically to our own country, I think should become familiar to every school child.

GAZETTE REPORTS ON PERSONAGES

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Jan 6—Mrs Stanley Smith, daughter of the Grand Vizier of Turkey, arrived from England on Dec. 31. She was asked: "What's your last impression of London? Which is the memory that lingers most? . . . "Dancing in the Dorchester, shortly before I left," she replied. "The hotel shook, because of the bombardment, but we all ignored it completely. Then, on our way out, some people invited us to dine with them the next day. The doors of the trembling Dorchester were open, and we couldn't hear what our host was shouting after us. Then, while the anti-aircraft guns were stilled for a moment, we heard him call: "Don't forget—white tie."

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: Although the suggestion undoubtedly will win this corner the opprobious smear-word "appeaser," isn't the real intent of these power-laden committees better expressed as "all aid to Britain "short of peace ?"

THE ALL-UP (AND ALL-OUT) for BRITAIN boys are slinging that word "appeaser" in the face of any variety of patriot which happens to be a different brand of patriot than themselves . . . As they seem to have access to more media of expression than, for instance, the so-called "America First" crowd, you will be hearing that scornful "appeaser" label more and more often

YOUNG JOE KENNEDY PLACED himself on the chopping-block by coming out against all aid for Britain at the Ford Hall "Folks Meeting," and it is easy to predict that backers of his dad will choose to see a reflection of Joseph P., Sr.'s mental working in the stand taken by the son . . . You won't hear much about the courage of both Kennedys in going against what we are sure is the "national sentiment

IN A SORT OF CHAIN-LETTER advertisement (quarter-page size) in the New York newspapers, under the heading "An Open Letter to Congress," a distinguished committee, with many Bostonians among the signers, urged readers of the ad to "help toward having a similar advertisement appear in your newspaper by forming your own local group."

HARVARD WAS WELL represented among the signatories . . . Former President A. Lawrence Lowell, President Conant and Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard Law School all signed the "open letter" . . . Playwright Robert E. Sherwood, who thought up the "Stop Hitler Now" ads of last spring, who wrote the moving drama "There Shall Be No Night," as well as his earlier indictment of the munitions makers, "Idiots' Delight"! was, of course, also represented

MR. SHERWOOD HAS been this column's favorite American dramatist since he quit an editor's job on the old "Life" to be a full-time playwright . . . We remember him in his undergraduate days at Harvard, circa '16 and '17 . . . (You can't forget Mr. Sherwood, as there's six feet seven inches of him, and, boy, can he write!)

PUT IN APPRAISING his energetic leadership of the "all-out-for-Britain" movement we happened to remember the other day that Mr. Sherwood were kilts in the last war as a member of one of the crack Scottish regiments . . . Perhaps he is a citizen of the United States, but if he is then it's a development of his post World War days

WHEN YOU ACCEPTED the "king's shilling" in that war you had to forego American citizenship . . . Now, this is no jab at Bob Sherwood for espousing the cause and course he honestly believes to be the right But if he is a citizen of Great Britain it seems to be somewhat confusing when to is hailed constantly as the "famous American playwright

OUR ONLY POINT is that many, many cases of a very personal interest lurk behind what is ostensibly a patriotic (American) attitude . . . We would like to see this terribly earnest discussion kept free of such terms as "appease" and, for the other side, "anti-monger" . . . That famous "bill of rights" a 1939-40 all-popular reference of which we aren't hearing so much of late should insure the safe utterance of the thoughts of persons on both sides of the crusade to keep America free.

MONA MARIS GETS GLAMOR ROLE

By Loucila O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan 6—In the old days when we had our Pola Negris and Nita Naldis we did all right at the box-office. The public liked those dark-eyed sirens who were sort of glorified vamps. Well, Mona Maris is the nearest thing to Pola and don't think for a moment that Willie isn't taking stock of her potentialities as a box-office winner. After a long absence from the screen he put her in "Flight from Destiny" and the reaction was most favorable.

Now Mona, who hails from the Argentine, will have a spectacular role in 'Carnival in Rio" and Warren Duff, a story, Robert Lossen, Warner writer just back from South America, has sold Hal Wallis the idea of making "Carnival in Rio" in time for the annual carnival in Rio de Janeiro instead of Lent. Yep, the cameras and crews and Paulette Goddard, Rita Hayworth, of the cutting of shins will go to Rio for the Lent Denise Morgan, Patricia Morison and Anthony Quinn will be in the cast line-up for the carnival scenes rolling.

LUISE RAINER

LUISE RAINER, who is in the unusual position of being free to stage a return to Hollywood after winning two academy awards is eager to go to London. Apparently, bombs have no terror for her for she would like David Rose that she would like to go with him and appear in one of the pictures he is making over there for Paramount. David will see her on the way East and there is a chance that he will cast her in 'Halfway Castle" by A. J. Cronin story. Just why Luise, who came back here to try to get a break for herself in the movies, couldn't get a part is a mystery. Certainly she is as good as she was when she won all those awards.

HOLLYWOOD has been passing up its biggest singing bet in Ilona Massey. She has beauty, voice and personality. I hope "New Wine" is what she needs to establish her on the screen. It has been rewritten so many times and will start in ten days with Alan Curtis in the male lead. After "Balalaika" Ilona should have a top picture. Arthur Hornblow has talked with Joe Pasternak about "Hold Back the Dawn" with Paulette Goddard and Charles Boyer. Whether or not it is wise for her to play a supporting role with no chance to sing, I don't know. She has a tremendous following all over the country, but if, as Arthur Hornblow says "Hold Back the Dawn" is right for her, then she should do it.

YOU NEEDN'T be surprised if Brenda Joyce becomes Mrs. Owen Ward this month. Owen is very insistent that soon name the day and Brenda is extremely fond of the young man who has remained loyal to her, even though she has stepped out with many admirers. There is a strong possibility that she will wed before the end of the month.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Add to the cases of life: Patric Knowles, a sergeant in the Canadian Air Force, sick with German measles; Alice White and Jean Roberts now that their marriage has been made public, receiving heartfelt congratulations; Jean Howard and Hedy Lamarr are again on happening terms; Kay Francis and Ivan Goff the writer are regarding "rock serious," the Franks Albertsons expect their baby any minute; Estelle Taylor's romance with Lyle Shaw is again on; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Zanuck will celebrate their seventeenth wedding anniversary on Sunday; Virginia and Tex Brown came home from San Andreas Friday but Mr. Brown's sneeze and ear infection are refusing to let him go beyond two weeks to recuperate from the flu; the crowd cameras boys are giving Bonnie Barnes a hard time every day and presenting her with a silver cigarette case on account of she has been the most co-operative star of the year.

JANE DARWELL, who never misses a day at Sun Annie, has been loaned to Warners by 20th. Held back during recent season! Cobina Wright, Jr. and George Montgomery a Santa Anita twosome; Jimmy Stewart will sell his airplane and get a new model. He escorted Ginger Rogers to the Jack Benny party. An old romance! Ginger's hair is still dark proving she doesn't care whether the critics like it or not; everyone is asking the name of the pretty girl Bobby Stack took to the La Conga. Her name is O'Neil.

NEW SHOWS AT BLINSTRUB'S, CRAWFORD, KEN

Versailles Revue Is Hit; Beachcomber Thrills

By SAM BERENSON

Your old Cap'n Sam is merely a recorder of after-dark life along the Hub's Rialto . . . and all comment on the Eagles' deftness in the arts of spinners, double-reverses, and the blocking which opens up holes for the Wrathful Wraith from Malden, we leave to our brethren of the sports department.

But we can't resist the temptation to pay our little tribute here to a grand football team—the high-flying Eagles of Boston College; a grand bunch of boys. Boston is proud of 'em . . . and so are we.

Speaking of the Eagles reminds us that the Cocoanut Grove is scheduled to toss a gala testimonial party in honor of the ace football tossers tonight! It isn't often that a nightspot throws a welcome-home reception in honor of a college football squad—but the B. C. boys rate it—and how!

A wondrous thing, the popularity of the Cave, newest of the Hub's nuteries, which in so short a time has slipped into the top-ranking group of Rialto favorites . . . a swanky spot, smart in its atmosphere and New England's longest oval bar . . . two fine bands, and definitely one of the likelier calling-places . . . Benny Goodman has a local date come February 1 . . . at Symphony Hall with Pianist Bartok and Violinist Joseph Szigeti . . . A word of commendation to that dependable entertainment to be found at Steuben's Vienna Room . . . ever a delightful evening, with the Lew Conrad rhythm . . . and herewith a reminder of the reasonable party and banquet rates hereat . . .

A recommended show for the week is the current presentation at the Versailles, a bang-up revue featuring Betty and Jean Kean; Ward & Lane, and many a star from the "Crazy With the Heat" company . . . a nicely balanced routine with the sweet tune-spinning of George McFarland's band and the clever emceeing of Sammy Walsh . . . theatrical guest night every Sunday . . . After so gaily lifting off the lid on the New Year, Hose Cappy swings merrily along into a program of exciting shows at his interesting No. Easton plaisance . . . ever a world of fun.

"Revue Internationale," the first of the great shows for 1941, planned for the Latin Quarter by Lou Walters, who manages to operate in Boston and on Miami Beach simultaneously, continues to attract large audiences to the club nightly . . . The petite Oriental youngsters Toy and Wing, the Manshinos, sensational Polynesian adagio artists the thrilling Jansleys, Harry Spear and Janet Carroll, join their talents with the Latin Quarter ballet to provide a terrific hour of entertainment.

Peppy de Leon's band is the new musical combination at Tommy Maren's Beachcomber on Boylston st. Preceded by such outstanding Latin combinations such as Vincent Brigale, and Socarras, the De Leon orchestra upholds the Beachcomber standard of the finest conga and rhumba music available . . . the usual South American revue carries on at the Beachcomber and Nye Mayhew's smooth orchestra is on hand for straight American dance music . . . Kaye Doyle, one of Boston's loveliest songbirds continues as the musical feature at the Hi Hat along with Paul Mann's Orchestra . . . the Hi-Hat and best known "chicken palace" for barbecued chicken . . . at the Bradford "Circus Room," Diana Davis, the gal with the lovely voice who accompanies herself so cleverly on the piano, strumming Art Ward of guitar fame, and Elwin Shaw, master of magic.

Hold onto your hats . . . Sally Keith, tassel-tossing temptress, returns tonight to the Crawford House for a limited engagement . . . this young lady is tops in these parts as well as those parts, and her return to the Crawfordry will be loudly huzzahed . . . a marvellous drawing card . . . The weekly hint on cuisinery; for tempting Italian dishes visit the O Sole Mio . . . but tasty! . . . A typical fast-tempo'd show for Dorgan's Old Harbor House this week . . . a wealth of snappy floor talent, plus all that speed and hospitality which has won so much success for the South Boston oasis.

Jack Brown swings the popular Casa Manana into another week of fascinating entertainment . . . top-honors to a fast, stream-lined revue, headed by the Casa lovelies . . . with spotlight abilting to the yeah-man rhythm of the danceable Lew Carter crew

Coincident with the anniversary of his third year at the Hotel Essex Grill, fellow workers and friends are uniting next Wednesday to give Billy Kelly, Essex master of ceremonies, a thumping testimonial party in honor of the occasion and as a send-off to Billy, who goes to Miami for his first vacation in several years . . . Three smart shows nightly.

Interesting news from out of Blinstrub's Village . . . wherein this colorful rendezvous affirms its intentions of serving up only the best in entertainment throughout 1941 . . . and how well the Village intends this may best be judged by the gala presentation bowing in tonight at this plaisance . . . sparkling action, indeedy, backgrounded by the capable melody-making of the Karl Rohde group . . . Bright reports emanate from the smart Vanity Fair on Newbury Street . . . gay atmosphere, with a toe-tempting dance band.

"Folies Comiques" is the title of the sparkling Club Mayfair show now exciting much attention with Nina Olivette and her partner, Allen Murray, in comedy capers; Vivienne Allen, torrid singer from "Crazy With the Heat" stage production; Ross, Lane and Ross, knockabout funsters; St. Clair and Durand, acrobats with finesse; the George Libby chorus in beautiful routines, plus Ranny Weeks' orchestra for dancing . . . A new tropical show sways into the atmospheric Corcovado tonight . . . a sarong-styled offering certain to be well received by patrons hereat . . . a gay salon.

That razzle-dazzle sepia spot, Little Dixie, continues on with its famed entertainment in the hotcha style . . . always a whirlwind of action at this Mass. ave. spot, where a wealth of talent blends with the Pinckney rhythm to provide an ace-high attraction.

Russ Howard, who for years has been a funnier lad than a lot of people who receive larger salaries for allegedly being funny, has moved his hat to a new hook—this time he's at the Ken Club on Tremont street . . . Frances Claire's band for dancing . . . Aside to the

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by IZZY ORT

My tongue feels like a motorman's glove and I've been wearing an icebag instead of a hat since the New Year's Eve party at my Grill, but just the same today is the day I make my New Year's resolutions.

First—I resolve to give my patrons more for their money in 1941 How I'm going to do it is a mystery because I think I'm givin' 'em plenty now, but I'm determined!

I'm goin' to send my overflow business to my friends this year, also and I'm goin' to put on bigger, better and more sensational shows

I'm resolvin' also to play a better game of pinochle than I did last year. I'm goin' to stop stealin' rides on the backs of street cars and also to give my diet some consideration once in a while

I think I shall give the bangtails the go-by this year and put the money in the bank for post graduate courses in some university. I feel a need for culture comin' over me like a blanket.

I'm resolvin' to never let a day pass without thinkin' how thankful I am to be an American in the greatest country in the world—the country that has given me everything.

What's more, I'm resolvin' that Chuck Harris' band will get more broadcasts on WHDH every day at 3:15 P. M., and that Sadie Perry will continue to be the shinin' light of my entertainment in the El Tropico Room

I'm also resolvin' that there will be no more fun any place in America or any afternoon or night than there will be every day in the year in the El Tropico Room and in my gay Grill at 24 Essex Street. Advt.

Mr. & Mrs. New England—
It's June in January at the Beachcomber—midsummer, exotic South Sea atmosphere—a tropical paradise just within the door from winter—forget cold weather and everything—relax to the enchanting charm of the most sensational nite spot of them all

Jo Anne Headlines Gala New Casino Burlesque

New star engaged to sparkle over the Casino show this week is Jo Anne, and they modestly refer to her as a "lovely blonde with the physical endowments of a modern Venus." Jo Anne will exhibit her endowments in the new Ed Ryan production opening today at the Hanover at house. There will be other charm exhibits by Irma Vogelee, Bubbles Yvonne, Elinor Walent and Pepper Parker. But the emphasis is put on Jo Anne, who is further described as a "luscious beauty certain to become a favorite with Boston burlesque fans."

Pepper Parker

On the comedy side of the new Casino show will be Joe Freed, Tommy Raft and Bobby Fay, all of whom are already in the favorite class. Freed has that funny voice, Raft a marvelous mastery of comic tricks and Fay the famous misfit clothes. They are good for plenty of laughs all the time.

Ben Hamilton, Ben Rogers, the Daye sisters and several vaudeville acts are on the featured list, not to mention the 30 Casino dancing dolls.

Variety Club Honors Morey Goldstein

Morey (Razz) Goldstein, who has just been promoted from the post of city salesman for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures in Boston to that of branch manager in charge of the New Haven office, will be guest of honor at a dinner to be held at the Statler tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Variety Club of New England. Steve Broidy, of Monogram Pictures, heads the dinner committee, which includes prominent motion picture representatives

WILLIE HOWARD stars in Kurt Kasznar's musical, "Crazy With The Heat," now in its final week at the Shubert.

DURBIN HIT AT BEACON

Deanna Durbin is on the Beacon screen in her Spring Parade film with Robert Cummings appearing opposite the young singing star. Dick Foran and Peggy Moran are on the dama bill in "The Mummy's Hand."

B. C. Game Epic on Both Keith Screens

Both the Keith Memorial and the RKO Boston theaters are highspotting the Boston College triumph over Tennessee at the Sugar Bowl. This biggest gridiron game film ever brought to Hub screens shows every highspot.

'The Westerner' Tops Tremont Bill

Gary Cooper is starring on the Tremont screen in "The Westerner," with Doris Davenport and Walter Brennan in featured roles. Jean Bennett and Lloyd Nolan are billed in "The Man I Married."

Fred Astaire Taught Paulette Dance Steps

Boris Morros couldn't get Paulette Goddard out of his mind. He wanted to star her opposite dancer Fred Astaire in the new Paramount swing comedy, "Second Chorus," which arrives at the Metropolitan Theater on Thursday. But the hitch was that she couldn't dance. Otherwise she was perfect for the role. She was young, beautiful and a comedienne of extraordinary ability.

He worried about the dancing requirement for some time and then asked Miss Goddard how she would like to be Astaire's dancing partner. She said "yes" without hesitation.

Morros was surprised at the quick acceptance. Perhaps she knew how to dance. Nonsense, said Miss Goddard, but she would attend to it right away.

That very day she started taking dancing lessons, using her own method. She wouldn't take a step to pieces and then go through every toe tap and heel tap separately like a piano student mastering a Chopin arpeggio. She'd go through the whole routine, gradually picking up agility.

Then she learned that Fred Astaire was rehearsing his own dances at the Paramount studio. By "coincidence" she would appear at the same time that Astaire began to practice. Within three days, Astaire was teaching her.

She proved to be a quick pupil and Fred was delighted.

THE AMAZINGLY versatile Paulette Goddard, who is teamed with Fred Astaire in the gay, romantic, dancing comedy, Paramount's "Second Chorus" is here shown with Astaire, Artie Shaw and Burgess Meredith. You'll be seeing them on Met screen, starting Thursday.

'Life With Father' In Last Weeks Here

That "Life With Father" is drawing toward the close of its phenomenal run at the Civic Repertory Theater is indicated by the mathematical announcement of "Last Weeks" for the comedy in Boston. "Life With Father," with Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern leading its [illegible] cast, has proved to be the [illegible] Sept. 16, it is now [illegible] 15th crowd [illegible]

[illegible] Wm. Fox's [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] Seven [illegible] Theater [illegible] Seven [illegible] for the Philadelphia opening, however.

"Life With Father," made into a play by Howard Lindsay and Russel [illegible] is based upon the highlights [illegible] books of Clarence Day [illegible] his own family who lived [illegible] New York social and financial circles in the 1880's.

Youth's Perils In Gayety Hit

New screen sensation at the Gayety is "Adolescence," drama of boys and girls sowing their wild oats, with Leon Janney and Eleanor Hunt in the starring roles and carrying the pulsating melodrama to a powerful climax.

Janney appears as the youth aiming to go straight but finding plenty of lure as he reaches the old primrose path. The young actor, not long ago a Hub stage favorite, was never in better form. Miss Hunt is an attractive and magnetic actress.

Another current Gayety feature is "I Married Adventure," with Osa Johnson as the star and heroine in her own drama of daring exploits in the African jungle.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

IF JANET PIERCE still has the sentimental attachment to traditions and anniversaries that she used to have she'll have a dinner party in the Balinese room of the Hotel Somerset on each Jan. 4 for many years to come . . .

Saturday evening her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walworth Pierce of Bay State rd., announced her engagement to Perry H. Johnson at a dinner party in the Balinese Room, attended by members of both families.

The pretty blonde bride-to-be danced in a white satin and tulle gown . . . the fitted bodice was of satin, and the full skirt made of alternate bands of satin and tulle . . . A gardenia corsage completed her costume . . . Her beaming fiance entered into the spirit of the occasion with a big white carnation in the lapel of his tuxedo . . .

Sharing the excitement with them were Janet's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lincoln Pierce . . . the latter in a dinner gown of magenta velvet made on straight lines in front and draped into a modest bustle effect in the back . . . Also toasting the happy couple were Perry's sisters, Helen Johnson and Katy Johnson Fisher and the latter's husband, Sheldon Fisher . . . Helen accented her blonde hair with a white crepe sprinkled with shiny silver beads and brightened with a wide fuchsia sash . . . Mrs. Fisher wore wine velvet with a gardenia corsage . . .

DEBUTANTE NANCY SCOTT reaches for a sweet as she relaxes between jobs at Young Artists' Association headquarters where she is helping with plans for the association's forthcoming production of Dr. Thomas Arne's chamber opera, "Thomas and Sally," on Jan. 9, 10 and 11 in Civic Repertory Music Hall. Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Scott of Marlborough st.

Notes From a Society Editor's Cuff

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR holidays always bring many family reunions . . . and among the former Boston girls who are extending their visits well into the new year are Mrs. Frederick P. Moseley, Jr. (Leslie Bremer) of New York, and Mrs. Walter M. Phillips (Mary Bird) of Philadelphia . . . Mrs. Moseley and her two children have been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bremer at Cohasset . . . Mrs. Phillips brought her young son and infant daughter home to spend a couple of weeks with her mother, Mrs. Francis W. Bird, at East Walpole . . .

Mrs. Bremer threw a snow on the ski slope at the North Conway side to give Mrs. Edward W. Hagworth Morton McKinney, Jr. (Edith Bird) the most difficult slopes . . . She is one of the U. S. A's foremost women skiers and has spent the past week at Jackson, N. H., with her husband and her mother and sister, Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean and Pauline McKean . . .

Mrs. Henry E. Russell (Louise Harding) of Dedham, went to Gotham for New Year's . . . but not to shout a noisy welcome to 1941 in Times sq. or in a fashionable night club . . . She went over to wave farewell to her hubby, who has left for a year's active service in the Navy . . . Louise is one of the popular young married daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Harding of Chestnut Hill . . .

You Can Be Beautiful

Complexion Brush Offered With Liquid Facial Soap

By ARLINE GOULD

"FOR YOUNG SKIN ailments . . . such as blackheads, oiliness, bumpy texture and external eruptions . . . a liquid soap and complexion brush have no peer for perfect cleansing. And with perfect cleansing, the way out of these troubles is clear, and much faster!"

That's what a famous young-skin counsel says . . . and to help prove her point, she offers her complexion brush, regularly $1, free with the $1.75 size of liquid facial soap.

A scrubbed look is the basis of all innocent youthful glamour . . . says this wise woman. But no amount of scrubbing with harsh aids does any more than give a reddened, irritated look. Her liquid facial soap is the blandest, gentlest possible sort of thing . . . mildly medicated to soothe any possible openings in the skin, which invariably occur when eruptions are bothering the life out of some teen-ager.

It's a special which lasts only one week, and that week is the current one which begins today . . so if you have in mind some young friend, or a niece or nephew who is developing social claustrophobia because of complexion-consciousness . . . who shies away from new acquaintance or contact with all the old pals . . . help him or her get a start in the New Year that will carry on to a reward of skin beauty before 1942 rolls around.

If you'd like complete information on this grand special, a $1 complexion brush given with the liquid facial soap, $1.75, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Drive Dinner Tonight

Topping all other interests for the next couple of weeks will be preparations for the 1941 Community Fund drive which opens officially on Jan. 13 to raise $1,833,000 for local Boston charities.

Hundreds of Greater Boston's distinguished men and women will gather at the mammoth preliminary dinner to be held this evening at the Copley-Plaza to stimulate interest in the drive.

Among the many planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon MacLeod, all of Westwood; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison F. Lyman of Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Dibble, Mrs. Henry G. Vaughan of Sherborn; Mrs. Howard T. Spalding of Watertown; Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Hallowell, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Mayo-Smith, Maj. and Mrs. Philip Sherwood and Mr. and Mrs. Minturn Sedgwick, all of Dedham.

Smart Set Fashions

Dream-Like Bridal Frock

YOU WANT your wedding to be a triumph . . . what girl doesn't? And lately there's been a feeling once more for the kind of wedding fashion that may be put away with a deep and abiding pride in its beauty and worth. Here's one which we would nominate for such an honor, though you may well wish to use it as a dance frock of unquestioned formality for awhile before putting it carefully away. It will "convert" without the slightest necessity for change or re-doing, which is the way you want it to be . . . unless you'd like to cut away the net fill-in of the lace decolletage. The top and sleeves are of white lace, with pearl embroidery decorating the neckline. The wide skirt is simple as a fall of snow . . . straight, full white net. This beautiful bridal gown is available in a Boston shop; if you write or phone our Beauty and Fashion Department we'll gladly give you shopping information.

Now is the Time to Beware of Contagious Colds!

At a treacherous time like this, with contagious colds all around you, what you do today may save you and your family a lot of sickness, worry and trouble later.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SNIFFLE, SNEEZE OR SIGN OF NASAL IRRITATION . . . put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Va-tro-nol helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) depend on Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a warming poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks Va-tro-nol and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today—have them handy, ready to use.

Cooking

Goodies for Invalids

By MARTHA LEE

The quality of food is nowhere more important than in its role of speeding an easy if not happy recovery of the patient. Frequently there is the additional problem of tempting the appetite—too often the invalid is totally disinterested in food.

Rigid attention to variety among the daily meals and a daintiness of service usually does the trick. Under the guise of delicacies the food must be crowded with nutritional goodness, especially an abundance of minerals, vitamins and good protein.

Fruits, vegetables in varied types are the richest sources of these food essentials. Their richness in vitamins and minerals has won for them the special title "protective" foods.

Eggs in addition are a fine source of excellent protein, the building material important in invalid food. Not only may eggs be served as such in their many variations of poached, coddled, scrambled and baked, but they are an excellent vehicle for incorporating the necessary fruits, vegetables and milk into the meals.

Lightning Creme is a deliciously different dessert requiring no cooking. It can be mixed in a twinkling. It has a taste thrill.

LIGHTNING CREME

2 eggs, separated
¼ cup sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
Rind of ½ lemon
Juice of ½ lemon (2 tbsp.)
½ tbsp. gelatin
3 tbsp. water

Add salt to egg white and beat until stiff, add half of the sugar (2 tablespoons) and beat until stiff. With same beater beat yolks, remaining sugar, lemon rind and juice until fluffy. Meanwhile soak gelatin in the cold water, set over hot water to dissolve. Add dissolved gelatin to egg yolk mixture. As it begins to thicken, fold in whites. Mold. Chill. Serve with or without whipped cream. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Eggs with cottage cheese and milk is a superlative souffle. Serve it as a main dish.

EGG AND COTTAGE CHEESE SOUFFLE

4 eggs, separated
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup cream or rich milk
1 tsp. or more salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Separate eggs, mix the beaten yolks, cottage cheese, cream, seasoning. Fold in the [illegible] beaten whites. Turn into [illegible] of greased [illegible] baking dish, set in a pan of water, [illegible] water [illegible] Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until set, about 25 minutes. The custard will be cooked when mixture does not adhere to knife when inserted. Cool quickly by placing cups in cold water. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED CUSTARD

[illegible] eggs, slightly beaten
[illegible] sugar
½ tsp. salt
2 cups milk
Nutmeg

Combine slightly beaten eggs, sugar, salt, and milk. When sugar is dissolved, pour in custard cups, sprinkle with nutmeg, and place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until set, about 25 minutes. The custard will be cooked when mixture does not adhere to knife when inserted. Cool quickly by placing cups in cold water. Makes 6 servings.

CREAM CUSTARD

4 egg whites, slightly beaten
¼ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup milk
1 cup heavy cream
Nutmeg

Combine slightly beaten egg whites, sugar, and salt. Add milk and cream, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour in custard cups, sprinkle with nutmeg, and place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until set, about 25 minutes. The custard will be cooked when mixture does not adhere to knife when inserted. Cool quickly by placing cups in cold water. Makes 6 servings.

Open Season

THE day broke clear and warm and the sun sneaked over the sill of the window and slid into his room in the rooming-house. Elmer Stiles opened one eye as the light touched his forehead.

For an instant he felt the warmth of the day and saw the light and thought, "It's good to be alive." But then he remembered Cassie and he wasn't so sure. He wouldn't bet on it.

There was something else he had to do, more than not be afraid of. Like the back of his mind and reluctantly turned to think of it. It had to do with the fate of that life had to do with his future, whose choice might be of it he were free, were unsettled. Elmer did not know how long he had to choose.

He threw back the sheet and stood up at bed all in one motion, all handled and lithe power. He reached for a cigarette, lighted the end and slipped into a He went to the window and looked out and his Adam's apple rode up and down his throat as he thought. "This is New York all right. I'm in the city of the all these years."

He saw a sort anything to get excited about. It was a view of backyards with dreary-gray garages and dilapidated shanties and fences in the backyard. At the back Elmer's room there was a small brick tenement. From the house hung limp and colorless wash.

Out in Ohio from where Elmer had come, the trees would be red and yellow and the grass would still be blooming. But so would Cassie, his wife, and Elmer didn't want to see Cassie again, for whom he once had a real love. Elmer would see New York backwards, beginning with factories and all.

He was 26. He had married Cassie when he was 21 and nothing, except a drug and soda clerk in Emmetsburg, a fair-sized town. Cassie, then, was a beauty. She had never worked in her life. She was the daughter of the druggist who owned the drug store in which Elmer worked. He hadn't wanted Elmer to marry her, of course.

Well, they were married and Elmer and she set up housekeeping in a little cottage on the edge of town. But Cassie continued to hold her record of not working. She never did a lick. She wouldn't even make his coffee in the morning. When he protested, she flew into hysterical rages and formed the habit of running home.

The first time she did that, Elmer went after her. By that time he was convinced that in some respect he was in the wrong and he asked her and got Cassie's gracious forgiveness. He went after her the second time. And the third. After that, he began to realize that Cassie was full of it.

She developed into a scold. She nagged him all the time. She would do no work and told everybody that Elmer didn't love her, that he had married her for her father's money. It wasn't true at first, it wouldn't have been true, Elmer thought, have been a bad idea. The th day in the back of his mind. When he told them, they would notify the police that he was a deserter. The police would arrest him and would ship him back to Ohio and Cassie. Cassie wouldn't be so forgiving this time. She could have him thrown into jail.

He went out of his rooming house and dropped into a small restaurant for a cup of coffee. That is all he could take on for breakfast. He was too despondent to eat. He finished his coffee and started for the public school to register. When he arrived, there was a line a block long. He be-old man had quite a lot of it.

Toward the end of their first year Cassie was insanely jealous of him. She believed he was chasing every woman who came into the store. This was about as far from the truth as any story could possibly get. She had wanted him so completely away from women that he wouldn't have taken on love with the most beautiful star in Hollywood.

She soon began to follow him. She would bounce out at him from the most unexpected places. She would stumble into the store and stand glaring at him while he was waiting on a woman customer. The whole town began to laugh at him. Elmer stood it for a year and then, one day he walked down to the station, bought the cheapest ticket he could get and left for the East.

He left Cassie no work. He didn't know what he was going to do. In Pittsburgh the wife deserted and shipped back to Ohio. This was a good job he was fired out of because of it. Cassie dropped the charges against him when he promised he would never do it again. So he went home and lived and starved a week and then in an ad-

This time he took an alias. His real name was George Stiles, so from the day he left Cassie the second time, he was Elmer Stiles. The name had served him well.

His appearance was average and unscript. It fitted any number of men his age. Tall, thin, blond hair, light complexion, a difficult manner. As yet with anything nobody says. So the "theories" police stations received telling them to at out him on sight had it not been any good. He had been right.

But as he shaved and dressed that morning, he knew that the end was about ended. This was October sixteenth, nineteen forty, and he and millions of other men would register with local draft boards today so that the army would know where to find its men when it was ready for them.

When they questioned him, he would have to say he was married, that his wife was in Ohio, that he had run away from her. He would have to tell all that because he would be under oath. That is why he had tried to keep the date of

She would saunter into the store and stand glaring at him while he was waiting on a woman customer.

"Where is she?" the man asked, "In this place in Ohio?"

"Yes, sir," Elmer answered and saw that the other man was looking at him.

"Sure your wife was the only thing you ran away from?" the man asked sternly.

"Oh, yes sir," Elmer told him. "I'm no criminal. You can ask up at the Eagle Drug Store. I've worked there for nearly a year."

"Well," the man said doubtfully, "you don't look as though you'd murder anybody either. Why did you leave your wife? Why did you go AWOL?"

So Elmer told him the whole story. He told it very well because he sat there looking back at it. He didn't give himself any the best of it either. He knew he had done wrong and that he had acted like a rat. "But," he explained, "it got so I couldn't stand the sight or sound of her. It got so I knew I'd kill her, if I stayed. And I knew she would be better off without me. She'd go back home and live comfortably doing nothing for the rest of her life."

"Any children?" the man asked.

"No, thank the Lord," Elmer said.

"Well, I don't know," the man said. "What do you think, Herb?"

I think we ought to check up on him," Herb, the other man, answered.

"Sure," the man agreed, "but I think we'll find he's all right. I think I know just how he feels. Ella was built along those lines when we were first married. I had to smack her down a couple of times before she got the right idea. I don't think Elmer, here, would smack a woman or anything else. So he had to light out. O. K., Elmer. I'm not a cop — I'm just working for Uncle Sam. If you're on the level and haven't murdered anybody, I'll never turn you in. I kind of envy you."

Elmer went back to the drug store and put on his apron.

THE END.

MONEY TO LOAN

HOW YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN

FOR ONE YEAR AT A COST OF 5¢ A DAY

You can get $100 to pay old debts or other expenses if you can repay $9.75 a month for 12 months—No endorsers or guarantors needed

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will total a $100 loan in full in twelve months. The cost in this case will be less than 5¢ a day. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 and not more than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law and is the same to everyone.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or your personal note.) No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. You don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

THERE ARE ONLY two more important news stories concerning the Boston College football team which the public will await with more than usual interest. They are (a) the future of Frank Leahy at Boston College and (b) Charley O'Rourke's decision to accept a position as a teacher-coach or to play professional football.

Despite all reports to the contrary, I refuse to give serious consideration to the story that Boston College will fail to offer Leahy a long term contract as head coach at a substantial increase in salary. I believe that the Boston College football authorities appreciate the national football standing Leahy has brought to them, and that they also recognize the fact his football genius has enabled them to enjoy the best financial season in all the years the Eagles have played football.

I think Boston College is as certain to retain Leahy as the Yanks are to sign up Joe DiMaggio who at this time is classed as a holdout. Boston College needs Leahy as the Yankees do DiMaggio. I also feel that neither Leahy or DiMaggio is anxious to leave their present berths.

We always, of course, are hit with the case of Dr. Eddie Anderson, formerly of Holy Cross, when we discuss cases like that of Leahy. Dr. Anderson established Holy Cross as a big time college in football, but when he did not receive what he thought was proper financial compensation for his efforts, he signed with Iowa. When the Holy Cross athletic department found out what Dr. Anderson had done, it would gladly have met the Iowa figure, but it was too late to do so. The good doctor had given the Iowa people a memorandum of his intentions on the back of an old envelope, and to him that was all that was necessary.

O'Rourke Looks Into the Future

CHARLEY O'ROURKE barely weighs 150 pounds, and if he elects to play professional football for the Chicago Bears or for Sheldon Fairbanks, he realizes he will take quite a battering. O'Rourke was in poor physical condition following the winning Tennessee game as he had taken a terrific pounding during the time he faced the Vols. The dead pan youngster from Malden had been a marked man, and, while no illegal tactics were used against him, the rival players added a little power to their tackles when they hit "Chucking" Charley.

O'Rourke knows that almost anything could happen to him physically in professional football, and that unless the money offered to him for his services is too tempting to turn down that he would be making a poor bargain.

Gus Sonnenberg once told me how the professional football career of a former college star, playing with the Giants, was cut short.

"The former college star was given the ball," Gus told me, "and his teammates didn't give him the interference to which he was entitled. I was told that some of the rival backs did not like him as he had come into professional football on a great college reputation.

"As I started for the former college star, I found no resistance in the line, and there was my man, unprotected, directly in front of me. The ball carrier's face turned white as I prepared to tackle him. He knew he was in a helpless condition. I dropped the ball carrier with a frightful thud, and that was the last time he ever played professional football.

"Unless a professional football player receives plenty of interference on plays, he cannot hope to get anywhere. It is a hard, rough game."

O'Rourke might decide to accept these physical risks if offered $15,000 for his first year in professional football.

"O'Rourke is every bit as good a forward passer as Davey Brien," said Bill Grimes enthusiastically upon his arrival in Boston with the Boston College team.

A job as teacher-coach would give O'Rourke the security he says he desires.

Uncertain Life of College Football Coaches

DESPITE ALL the lofty statements made at the time of college dinners the football coach that fails to deliver a winning team gets fired. The figures at the box office still make the final decision as to whether a coach will remain, and when these figures are in the red or show a sharp drop the athletic director hires a new head coach.

Raymond "Ducky" Pond of Yale is the latest to lose his job. He has been replaced by Emerson W. "Spike" Nelson who used to be a tackle at the University of Iowa, and who is well equipped to teach modern football.

Those of us who were in the press stand in November, when Harvard beat Yale, knew that "Ducky" Pond had directed his last Yale eleven in the Bowl.

"Yale will go shopping for a new coach," we agreed as a badly beaten Yale team started for its dressing room.

Dick Harlow, on the other hand, knew that the decisive victory of his Harvard team would give him top standing with the Crimson athletic associates.

Frank Leahy knows of this condition.

"Clark Shaunessy couldn't do a thing at the University of Chicago because he didn't have the necessary football material," Leahy recently said to me. "Chicago then gave up football. At Stanford, Shaunessy had the material with which to work, and he has got grand results."

ALICE MARBLE OPENS $60,000 TENNIS TOUR

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS) Alice Marble, the "glamour girl" of tennis, abdicates her amateur status in Madison Square Garden tonight when she makes her first appearance as a professional player to begin a cross country transcontinental tour which should add some $60,000 or more to the already accumulating bank reserves and infuse some sadly needed new interest into tennis, both the paid and non-paid kind.

For her professional debut Miss Alice, whose looks and personality are matched only by her devastating volleying, will be paired with Mary Hardwick, the ranking woman player of Great Britain.

Miss Hardwick has never beaten Miss Marble in six meetings, and it can therefore be assumed she will fail to do it in the seventh and in most of their subsequent encounters hereafter on tour.

TILDEN VS. BUDGE.

In the men's division, we have William T. Tilden, the miracle man of tennis who grows more durable with the ages, matching his 48 years against the youth of Don Budge.

This is for the best three out of five sets. As it looks now, Bill will be the winner of the first two sets, and then his long legs will sadly begin to sag under his big frame and the famous Tilden temper will come to the fore and Budge will wind up with the next three.

It may be scrambled about but big Bill is destined to get not more than two unless Budge has suddenly grown old beyond his years.

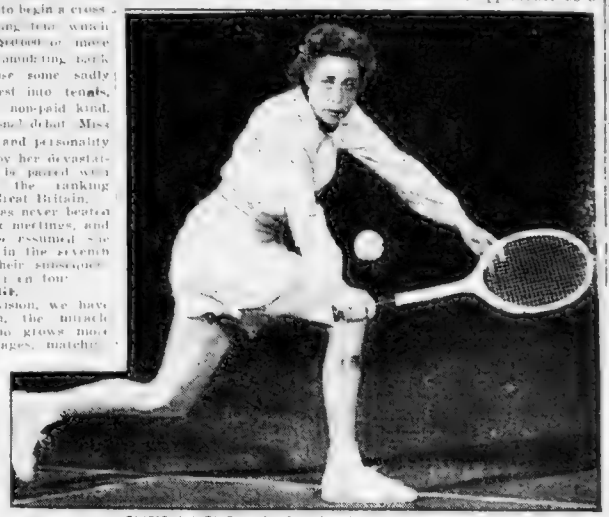
Miss Marble goes against Miss Hardwick for two out of three sets, and this is not expected to grow too burdensome for the American girl.

Miss Marble has a terrific forehand volley against which Miss Hardwick will offer a stout British fighting heart and tireless retrieving.

Miss Marble, having exhausted a first class amateur competition, finally succumbed to the lure of professionalism. And, considering the almost invisible hairline of demarkation that exists between the two brands of tennis, paid and amateur, this cannot be considered too terrible an offense.

Her professionalism is not calculated to do any great harm to either tennis or herself and of course, $60,000 is no sum for a pretty blonde to sneeze at.

The tour [illegible]



SHE'S IN THE MONEY—Popular song might well apply now to Alice Marble, tennis queen who makes her pro net debut in New York Garden tonight against Mary Hardwick. Alice is featured star of all-star tennis troupe which starts tour tonight.

SILVER SKATES DERBY OPEN TO YOUNG, OLD

By WALTER KILEY

One of the best bits of news of the 1941 season is the announcement that the sixth annual Silver Skates Derby, one of the highlights of the winter sports season, will be held at the Boston Garden on the afternoon of Sunday, February 16.

Ever since 1936 when the [illegible] ton American Record inaugurated the first annual Silver Skates Derby before a mighty crowd of some 100,000 spectators at Frank Ilin Field, the speed skating classic has become an anticipating fixture.

The American Record sponsors moved the show indoors to Boston Garden in 1937 and it has since been held there, each year proving grand entertainment for capacity galleries and providing an unusual opportunity for boys and girls, men and women to compete under the most ideal conditions and in a world famous arena.

Many of the top professional, [illegible] trick and fancy skaters of this country and abroad have performed as headliners of the Silver Skates Derby. Many of them have made their first American appearance in this great carnival and then gone on to great triumphs in naturally recognized [illegible] vals.

There is NO ENTRY FEE of any kind. Competition is free. Howeve all seniors, male or female, must be registered with the New [illegible] land Skating Assn. which charges [illegible] fee of 25 cents for this [illegible] membership.

Shortly, the official entry [illegible] will appear in the [illegible] of the American Record Advertiser. All speed skaters, regardless of past competitive achievements, is urged to prepare NOW to get in shape for the biggest and best Silver Skates Derby of all time.

Fordham Squad Returns Rigged Out as Cowboys

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS) The [illegible]-one Fordham football players [illegible] garbed in ten gallon hats and high-heeled cowboy boots—mementos of their stay in Texas—received a rousing welcome upon their arrival in New York from the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas.

The team was greeted by a swarm of students, alumni, friends and fans as they alighted from the train after a four-day extended tour of Dallas, New Orleans, Montgomery, Ala., St. Augustine, Jacksonville and Washington.

Coach Jimmy Crowley was not among the party. He remained in Florida where he will spend a two-weeks vacation.

Winning Golden Horseshoe Biggest Thrill, Says Taylor

(This is the fifth of a series of articles by Jockey Walter L. Taylor in which he reveals his riding secrets. Taylor recently lost the national jockey championship to Earl Dew by a single winner when he suffered an injury during the last day of the year while riding at Tropical Park.)

CHAPTER V

By WALTER LEE TAYLOR

(As Told to Dave Wilson and Toney Betts)

Old-time horse race folks in the paddock at Tropical Park say there never was a stretch finish between two jockeys like the one Earl Dew and I put up in 1940. On the last day of the year we were tied with 286 winners apiece. I fell off a horse in the fifth race at the Florida race track, and the horse I was supposed to ride in the eighth won on a foul. Earl Dew won the first race at Santa Anita, in California, in a photo finish, and that gave him a photo finish over me, too.

I began the year well out in front. I led at all the New England meetings, except Rockingham Park. In the middle of the summer I flew down home to Houston and, while I was away, Dew rode 65 winners in one month at Thistle Downs in Ohio.

When I came to Florida Dew was leading me by 10 winners, and we both rode at Tropical Park, and I tied the score and slipped out in front for a while. Then Dew went to the Coast and rode two winners at Agua Caliente one Sunday afternoon.

CLASH WITH DEW MINOR INCIDENT

You know, Earl and I had a little scrap in the jockeys' room before he left, but people made more fuss about it than the whole thing rated, and we really are on good terms and I sent him a wire of congratulations on New Year's Eve.

The fight started in a race when our mounts bumped.

It was the fault of the horses. They were bad actors, and I guess both Earl and I were hot over who was going to be the leading rider of the year, and with the papers whooping it up, we both must have lost our heads.

There is no use of playing the red-board, as we say around the jockeys' room—running the races after they're over. Some of my friends from New England say if I had claimed a foul in a stake race there last fall, I'd have got it sure, and that one winner would have made it a dead-heat between Earl Dew and myself.

I was riding a horse called Sir Marlboro, and Raymond Adair was on Halcyon Boy. When we came into the stretch both horses went wide and there was some bumping and the stewards flashed a big red light on the infield board—"Foul claimed." Everyone thought it was a foul. They say some of the gambling men laid odds of 10 to 1 that the number of Halcyon Boy would come down in favor of Sir Marlboro.

BIGGEST THRILL OF RACE CAREER

But I told the stewards frankly that I wasn't fouled. When Halcyon Boy began to drift out, my horse drifted right out with him and I was never touched. I'd like to win, I told the stewards, but it would really be unfair to disqualify the other horse.

A short time later Ken Kling, the cartoonist and turf writer, awarded me with the Golden Horseshoe for what he said was good sportsmanship, and that was the biggest thrill I ever got out of racing.

It's not the Golden Horseshoe, but the thought behind it. There is more fair play and racing is a cleaner sport than a lot of people think, and it's up to us jockeys to keep it that way.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, Jockey Taylor will tell of the short span of the career of a crack jockey.

Forest Companions' Initiation Wednesday

Initiation of candidates will take place at the meeting Wednesday night of Somerset Circle 1511, Companions of the Forest, at Knights of Columbus Hall, Somerville. Mrs. Anna Price, chief companion, will preside. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

Miller to Teach At Stripp School

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—Baseball gets off to an early 1941 start here Tuesday with the opening of Joe Stripp's winter school for young diamond hopefuls.

George Barr's school for umpires, operated in conjunction with Stripp's school, will open at the same time.

Stripp expects about 150 aspirants and Barr about 70 prospective arbiters.

The first week of Stripp's course will be taken up with general conditioning exercises. The preliminaries will be supervised by Stripp, Lou Hurst, Joe Tinker, Jimmy Jordan and George Andrews.

The following Monday, Eddie Miller, Van Lingle Mungo, Don Padgett, Ben Cantwell, Joe Medwick, Johnny Cooney, Dutch Leonard and Bob Weiland will join the staff.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

Brookline Pays Tribute to Kerr

Brookline has the distinction of being the first town to honor one of Boston College's famous football players, their own George Kerr. The committee has planned the most elaborate event of its kind ever held in the town, and a joyous welcome awaits the famous guard.

The gathering will be addressed by Coach McKeever, Fr. Dullea, S. J., William J. Hickey, chairman of the board of selectmen; Monsignor Splaine, the sports writers Dave Eagah and John Gilloolly, the guest of honor himself, and some of the B. C. Squad.

The toastmaster will be former Senator Edward O. H. Mullowney.

Entertainment will be furnished and St. Mary's Bugle Corp will supply the music. The Brookline high school football team, and St. Mary's football team of which George was a member for three years, will be present as guests.

There is every indication that the Brookline Municipal Gymnasium, the largest hall available in the town, will be filled to capacity.

WINNER OF DERBY BACK AS LEAD PONY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP)—Clyde Van Dusen, the Man O' War gelding which galloped to a muddy victory in the 1929 Kentucky Derby, soon will return to the races in the humble but important role of lead pony.

Dan B. Midkiff, manager of Louis B. Mayer's turf interests, said today the Derby winner will re reunited in California with his name-sake and trainer, Clyde Van Dusen, who is currently training Mayer's racing stable there.

Horse Van Dusen brought Man Van Dusen wreaths of glory in 1929 by churning through the slop at Churchill Downs to capture the Derby and $53,950. In doing so, the horse defeated Blue Larkspur, Col. E. R. Bradley's winter-book favorite.

During his career, the Man O' War-Uncle's Lassie chestnut earned $122,402.

In 1931, Horse Van Dusen retired to his trainer's Few Acres Farm in the company of Pony Bill, the lead horse that escorted him to all his races. Recently, Pony Bill died, leaving Clyde Van Dusen friendless on the little farm.

When news of the death of Pony Bill reached Trainer Van Dusen in California, he decided to bring his old pet to the West and attempt to break him into the role of a leader.

Almost every stable has a lead pony—or horse—that is ridden by the trainer and accompanies racers to and from the track for their morning workouts. The lead pony is usually tactful and instructive, showing the racers exactly what to do.

A number of thoroughbreds are used as lead ponies, but none so distinguished as Clyde Van Dusen.

Dartnell Paces Rovers to Victory

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Led by their fiery little wingman, Ed Dartnell, the New York Rovers defeated Riverdale's Skeeters 4-2 in a thrill-packed Eastern Amateur Hockey League game at Madison Square Garden before 11247 screaming fans.

Dartnell sent the New Yorkers into the lead late in the first period when he took a pass from Joe Patrick in front of the Skeeters' cage and slipped the puck past Goalie Paul Lessard. He tallied again shortly before the close of the second session with the assistance of Frank Dotten and Howie Hollinger.

Injured Bruins Recall 2 From Hershey

Ailing and battered, the Bruins with three revised lines managed to play the flying Chicago Black Hawks even for 70 minutes to wind up with a two all deadlock at the Boston Garden last night before a gathering estimated at close to 12,000 fans.

With Roy Conacher and Bill Cowley still sidelined, Coach Cooney Weiland had one unit made up of Wiseman-Jackson-Cain to supplant the Cowley line, and the third trio saw Hollett-Jackson-Hill working together.

Even the famed Kraut line couldn't remain intact, for Milt Schmidt had to leave early in the third period with a bad bruise above his knee and Red Hamill moved up front, leaving the B's with only three defensemen.

As a matter of fact the hospital listing extended even to the board of strategy with Manager Art Ross being forced to remain at home with an attack of neuritis.

CLAPPER SAVES DAY

Yet this makeshift array of Bruins managed to come from behind on a long shot by Dit Clapper, the 199th in his major league career with but two minutes and 15 seconds of regulation play remaining, to knot the score.

The overtime really produced the fireworks with no less than seven penalties being called during the short 10 minute struggle.

Just after the overtime started, Clapper was exiled for tripping but nothing came of it.

With less than four minutes to remain, the trouble broke loose.

BULLETIN

Art Ross today recalled two players from Hershey in the American League, for use against the Red Wings tomorrow night in the Garden.

They are forwards Gordon Prince and Pat McReavy. Two Bruins will be shipped to make room for the newcomers.

George Allen tried to give Eddie Wiseman a going over along the boards and Eddie went right at Allen.

Dit Clapper came racing over to take care of Allen and Johnny Mariucci decided to handle Clapper. The four went at it but the Donnybrook was stopped before any real damage occured.

FOUR PENALIZED

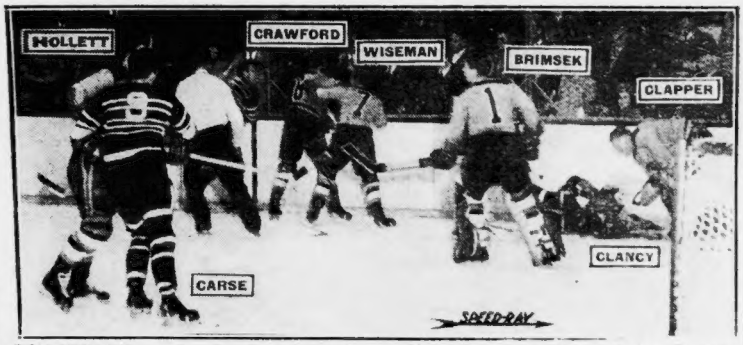
All four were sent off for two minutes.

With the penalty box jammed, Art Wiebe slapped a beating on Bobby Bauer just when it looked as though little Robert was in the clear, and the Hawks defenseman drew a delayed penalty, as the rules state that a team must have three men on the ice in addition to the goalie.

Then came the fun. When the time expired for the Donnybrook quartet, all four came racing on which was not according to Hoyle for the Hawks had to remain in seclusion until play was stopped because of the delayed penalty.

As a result, Referee Clancy not only banished Wiebe but also Mariucci for leaving the box prematurely. Manager Paul Thompson fumed and fussed but rules are rules.

That gave the Bruins a two-man edge with slightly more than a minute to play but the B's couldn't pull the hat trick.



DONNYBROOK near free-for-all in the overtime highlighted the Bruins-Hawks clash at Garden. Jack Crawford (No. 6) is shown separating Eddie Wiseman (No. 7) and George Allen, the two who started the trouble. On the right, King Clancy, referee, is on the ice over Johnny Mariucci breaking up the jam with Dit Clapper standing over them waiting for Mariucci to get up. Bill Carse (No. 9) at left is keeping Flash Hollett out of trouble.

Milt Schmidt Loses Father

Milton Schmidt, star Bruins center, received word this morning of the death of his father, Carl Schmidt, 82 years old, in Kitchener, Ontario.

Schmidt, who was injured in the Bruins game with Chicago last night, has been given permission by Manager Art Ross to leave Boston at 3:10 tonight for Kitchener and not rejoin the team until Saturday noon in Montreal.

Schmidt said today he did not expect his knee injury would keep him out of the game for long.

Fast B. C. Six To Face Huskies

Boston College's hockey team, which is following in the championship steps of the nationally famous grid forces, returns to local ice tomorrow night when it meets Northeastern in the feature game of another of the Arena's college twin bills.

Boston University will return to the hockey wars, after a three-week layoff, when it meets Middlebury in the other half of the two-game program.

After dropping its opener to Yale 4 to 3 Boston College has bounced back with a convincing string of four conquests. Victims included M. I. T. (15-1); Princeton (9-6); Colgate (11-4) and Dartmouth (4-3). The Colgate and Dartmouth conquests were played at Rye, N. Y. during the recent holiday week.

While the Boston College-Northeastern clash will quite likely produce the best contest of the still youthful college season the Boston University-Middlebury clash shouldn't be too hard on the Terriers.

Boston University had some trouble getting started this season, but in its last outing on Dec. 17 the Terrier team looked quite impressive pinning Harvard.

N. H. L. Standings

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Rangers 6, Americans 2.

Detroit 3, Canadiens 0.

Boston 2, Chicago 2 (Overtime).

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.

Americans	6	12	5	17

TOMORROW'S SCHEDULE

Rangers vs. Chicago at New York.
Detroit at Boston.
Toronto vs. Canadiens at Montreal.

AMATEURS ACTIVE AT ARENA TONIGHT

There will be plenty of flying fists at the second series of tryout bouts in the Irish American A. A.'s diamond belt championships at the Arena tonight.

There will be bouts in the eight championship classes. Winners in various title amateur tournaments in Boston this season will toss leather.

The weighing in will take place at 6 p. m., and Tom Kanaly says the entry list will be kept open until that hour.

BELT TOURNEY, FEB. 10

Tonight's winners as well as the winners of last Monday night's elimination show and the victors in the other tryouts to be held on January 20 and February 3, will clash in the grand finals of the Diamond Belt Championships, to be held at the Arena on February 10.

An added incentive for the youngsters to make good is the fact that a Boston team will be named from their showing in the Diamond Belt tournament for the intercity show the "Irish" club will stage at Garden on February 17.

Some of the better known hitters carded for action tonight are Paul Morello, Haverhill; James Lyman, Lowell; John McKinnon, Boston and Eddie Spiridione, Lawrence in the 118.

Fred Mottram, Lawrence; Joe Doucette, Lynn; Jackie Heard, Boston and Joe Edwards, Roxbury in the featherweight class.

DOOD IN JOUST

Some of the 135 pounders are Sam DiVincenzo, Haverhill; John Dodd, Dorchester; A. Marsiglia, Boston; Henry Medugno, Everett; Fred Crowley, Dorchester; Bill Fitzgerald, Dorchester; Thomas Makrey, Lawrence; David Kelley, Lowell and Ernest Gullo, Lawrence. In the welterweight division are Tom Albanese, East Boston; Fred Howard, Haverhill; Alphonse Brien, Lawrence; George DiCosta, Boston and James Taylor, Lowell.

Sal Cesario, Boston, Golden Gloves champion, leads the pack of 160-pounders against Eddie Yutkin, Cambridge; John Lycurgus, Boston; James Harvey, South Boston; George Dixon, Boston, and James Davis, Boston. In the 175-pounds class are Leo Bronzetti, Framingham; Manual Baptiste, Taunton; John Lopes, New Bedford; Albert Manning, South Boston, and Tony Buckley, Milford. Arthur O'Neil, Boston; Albin Tunas, Dorchester, and Dave Bagley, West Newton, are down to battle for heavyweight honors.

REDS SUPERIOR

PROVIDENCE, R. I. Jan. 6 (AP)—The Rhode Island Reds demonstrated clear superiority over the Cleveland Reds throughout an American Hockey League battle to roll up a 5-2 victory over the Western Division leaders.

Zamparelli, Road Racer, Answers Draft

Andrew "Hawk" Zamparelli, famed Medford road racer, faced Army officials today for final examinations in the second draft call in the national defense movement.

Zamparelli captained the Northeastern University cross country team in 1937 as a junior after gaining considerable recognition in his first season of varsity competition.

As a sophomore, Zamparelli was undefeated in college ranks and placed fifth behind Don Lash in the national championships. Zamparelli held both the New England Intercollegiate and New England A. A. U. harrier championships.

Since leaving Northeastern, he has continued his notable road work. The Hawk was listed as a scratch runner in practically all handicap races that he entered.

18 Schools Entered In Carnival

By SAM BROGNA

Topped off with the sixth annual Eastern Seaboard Relay Carnival Saturday afternoon, the schoolboys will be in for their most strenuous week of the indoor winter season.

This indoor meet, the first of the season which is taking place a month earlier because of the date shifts, brought about by the dropping of the Quad meet, again will be held at the Garden.

Although the entry has not been as large as last year at this date it is expected to pick up before the week is out and some cross to the 26 number of schools that competed last year. Only 18 schools have accepted invitations.

COURT PLAYERS ACTIVE

Hockey, basketball, wrestling and swimming also come in for a share of schoolboy limelight with the first two mentioned going at full blast.

Following a quiet Monday, the court performers will be busy on all fronts tomorrow and Friday afternoons with a number of contests scheduled for the remaining days.

Because of the Eastern Seaboard Relays, the Greater Boston puck chasers are forced to move over to the Arena on Saturday afternoon but, before that, the teams again will have their mid-week meetings.

On Wednesday afternoon at the Garden, two games are on tap. The two others will play Friday afternoon.

Melrose, conquerors of Arlington 6 to 3 last Saturday for sitting six No. 5, will go after its sixth straight Wednesday against Cambridge Latin. Newton, defending champion and winner of three straight since its beating by Melrose early in the season, and Medford meet in the other Wednesday game.

On Friday, Hingle Teen takes on Stoneham and Belmont and Arlington, both losers of their first five games, will square off.

BAY STATERS PLAY FRIDAY

Saturday's Greater Boston pairings will be the seventh of the season and the halfway mark of the 14-game schedule.

The Bay Staters, regular Saturday tenants at the Arena, have moved up to Friday night for their fifth round play and the Eastern Massachusetts League take over the Arena ice at 7 o'clock Saturday night following the Greater Boston skaters.

For the first time since the season got underway, the Boston Conference performers will be able to sleep Saturday morning. Their schedule this week calls for them to play on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Arena.

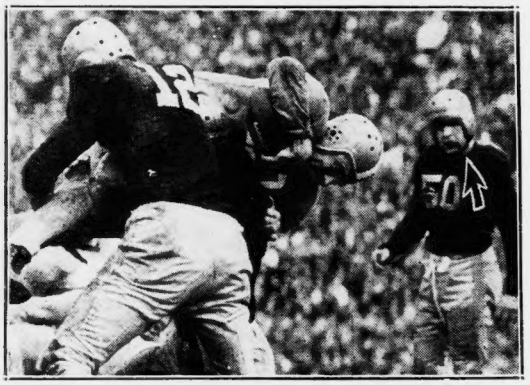
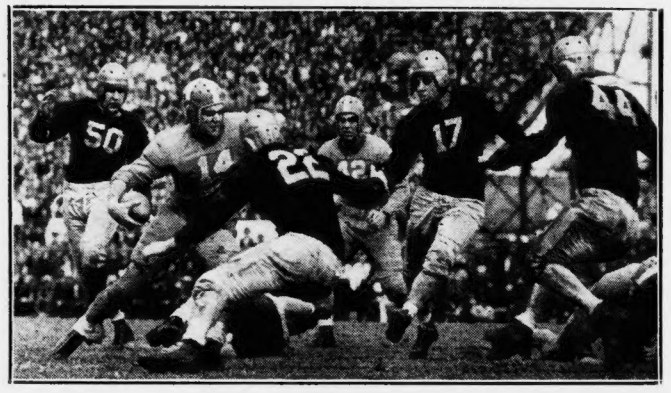
AS CINDERELLA MEN CLIMBED GLORY ROAD

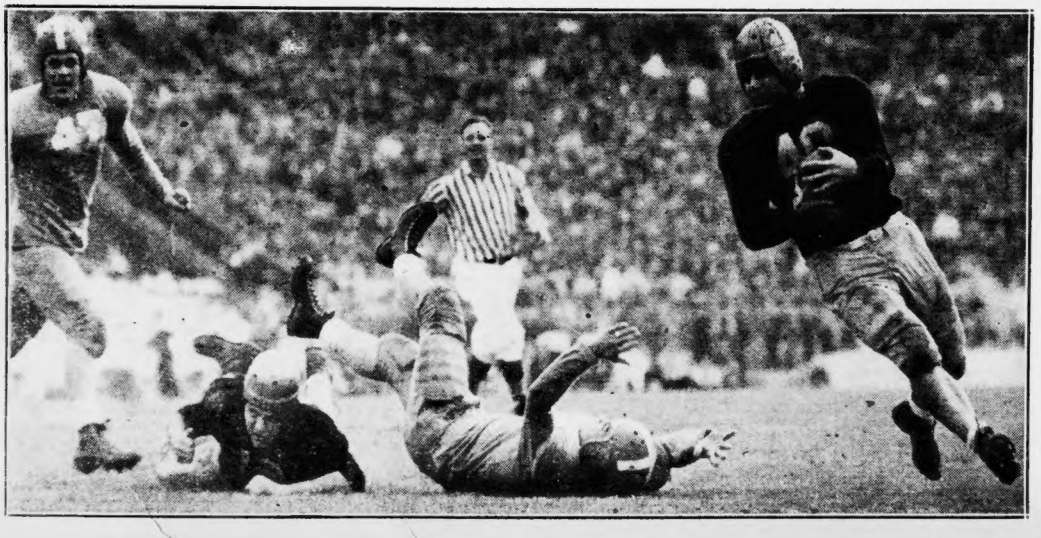
THE THIN MAN WINS IT—Charlie O'Rourke, No. 13 himself, runs deep into end zone of Sugar Bowl, scoring winning touchdown for B. C. against Tennessee. George Kerr, No. 47, is shouldering Bob Foxx of the Vols aside. Foxx seems to be holding Kerr, but his arms only went out in last desperate stretch for O'Rourke.

Pictures by Harold Davis, Knoxville, Tenn., News-Sentinel



MOVIES MISSED THIS—Arrow points to Gene Goodreault's badly swollen jaw, as B. C. tackler halts diving Tennessee back, and another Eagle gets set to help. Goodreault was one of many B. C. players whose bumps showed how rugged a game was played in the Sugar Bowl.





WHOA!—Ring of B. C. tacklers hems in Van Thompson of Vols, who's carrying ball like a loaf of bread. Toczylowski is set to make tackle. No. 17, Manzo, and Ed Zabilski, No. 44, are in position to aid. Vol No. 42, background, is Bob Suffridge, great guard.

BLOCKING AS IS—Mike Holovak has flattened Vol with terrific block and ball carrier Frank Maznicki grins a little as he sees road cleared. Greatest blocking of all time was feature of Sugar Bowl game, according to experts. Blocks were thrown for keeps.

Eagles Grid Squad Back in Class Room

Still a bit dazed by the roaring reception which Dame Boston tendered them Saturday and looking forward to the testimonial dinner which the Chamber of Commerce will tender them Thursday evening, the Boston College Eagles attempted to get into the swing of their everyday scholastic life this morning at the Heights.

The championship grid squad was the victim of a minor mobbing this morning when they, with the rest of the student body, attended classes for the first time since the start of the Christmas vacation Dec. 18.

The students—that part of it which had returned from the deep South—didn't get much chance to greet their heroes at the South Station, so they made up the deficit this morning at the Heights.

Of course, the gridders weren't subjected to the ordeal which they faced at the station, but the overall back slapping was almost as heavy, New Orleans, the Sugar Bowl and the Tennessee game were the chief topics of conversation between classes today.

NEAR EXAMINATIONS

The celebration at the Heights ends today, however. Mid-year examinations are only two weeks distant, and with those semi-annual acid scholastic tests coming up the Boston College student body must cut its frivolity to a minimum. The gridders in particular are anxious for a rest—for during the recent excitement the lads have had a hard time concentrating on the books.

After the Chamber of Commerce tribute on Thursday the squad will not assemble as a unit until the annual varsity club dinner, originally scheduled for Jan. 15, but now potentially postponed until after the mid-year examination period.

Many of the boys will be tendered tributes by their home towns.

HOME TOWN FOLKS ACTIVE

Joe Manzo and Henry Toczylowski, co-captains for the Sugar Bowl clash with Tennessee; Brookline's George Kerr; Gardner's Walt Dubzinski and Haverhill's Gene Goodreault, among others, will be honored by "home townies."

Charles "The Chuck" O'Rourke, who spent a busy Sunday with the interviewers and the cameramen, was tendered a testimonial by 1200 residents of Malden on Dec. 3.

The "Chucker", who has not signed any professional football contract as yet, will undoubtedly be one of the featured speakers at all of his mates' banquets. Mr. O'Rourke, if you didn't happen to be at the South Station last Saturday is quite a character in these parts at the present writing.

Hans Strand Seriously Hurt In Ski Accident

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—Hans Strand, nationally known skier, representing the Bear Mountain Sports Ass'n, was injured seriously in a crash on the newly remodelled 55-meter ski jump during the season's first jumping tournament.

Strand was the first of 71 entrants to glide down the long runway, and when he flashed out into space was turned over by a strong wind and landed on his side.

Dr. Thomas McMenamin, who examined Strand, said he was suffering from a brain concussion and other injuries.

BEETHAM, HERBERT RUN HERE

Charlie Beetham of Ohio and Jimmy Herbert of New York have entered in defense of the trophy runsin Saturday's third annoual V. F. W. track games at the Boston Garden.

Beetham, thre time national champion at the metric distance, will make an issue of the invitation—880 with John Borican, big Negro artist and former holder of the world track record for the distance.

Herbert, silky-striding New York U. Negro graduate, will meet a fast field in the 600, an event which he won last January in 1m. 13.8s., just missing the meet record of 1:13.4 made on a 12-lap track at East Armory by Douglas Raymond two years ago.

The games committee, in view of hte Beetham-Herbert feuding of 1940 (Beetham won both the Prout and B. A. A. 600s), was tempted to match them in Saturday's shorter run. But Beetham will meet a mighty field in the half-mile, and Herbert will need to be near the top of his form to stand off the 600 field that is being assembled to race him.

Already in the field with Herbert is John Campbell, unheralded Fordham sophomore, a youngster who may be the champion of the future Campbell will make his trophy racing debut in the event Saturday night.

A third defender is in the list for Saturday for Gene Venzke, the picture-book runner, will again race the mile in which, last year, he stunned the critics by beating Glenn Cunningham in a wild finish.

Celtics Play Sunday In Somerville Gym

The New York Celtics, the nation's No. 1 basketball team over a span of years, will play in Somerville High School gymnasium next Sunday afternoon against the Boston Good Wins.

The proceeds of the game will go to the Somerville committee for President Roosevelt's Infantile Paralysis Fund.

Bruins Notes

Sam LoPresti recalled from Kansas City when the Hawks lost Goalie Paul Goodman made an impressive Garden debut . . . he handled 27 stops successfully and one of the two goals against him was the fluky tally that saw the puck bounce off Mariucci's skate.

Frankie Brimsek had himself quite a night . . . the Zero Kid turned away no less than nine shots that were really labeled . . . "Red" Hamill making his season's debut with the Bruins was quite a busy gent . . . recalled as defenseman to fill in for Johnny Shewchuk who was shipped to Hershey. Red wound up centering the Kraut line when Schmidt got hurt.

They say Bobby Bauer is quite a baseball player, and he really looked it in the second period . . . Dit Clapper lifted a shot off the ice and Bauer took a cut at the puck just as it started by him shoulder high, and he hit a line drive right into the Hawks nets . . . Referee Paul Chaney ruled that Bobby had the stick above his shoulder, nullifying the goal, but it was a questionable verdict, as Bobby is a straightaway hitter and doesn't chop his base hits.

HA-HA-HA-HA! THEN THE FARMER SAID TO THE TRAVELING SALESMAN— HA-HA-HA— HE SAID— HA-HA-HA—
OH-HO-HO-HO! THAT'S A PIP HERMAN, THAT REMINDS ME OF THE ONE ABOUT THE BABIES THAT GOT MIXED UP IN THE HOSPITAL. IT SEEMS THERE WAS THREE BABIES—
REMIND YOURSELF THAT I'M OUT 40 BUCKS AND THERE'S ONLY AN HOUR LEFT TO PLAY, WILL YOU?
FUNNY AS A GAS MASK. THEY'VE GOT THE BALL AND ARE HANGING ONTO IT TILL THE WHISTLE BLOWS.
I KNOW 'EM. THEY'LL CALL FOR A ROUND OF BEERS AND SANDWICHES NEXT.
COME ON! COME ON! DEAL THE CARDS.

Many Title Holders Enter Skate Carnival

Title holders, champions in the various classes, leading figure skaters from every part of the United States, will come to Boston for the national competitions of the United States Figure Skating Association to be held in the new rink of the Skating Club of Boston January 30, 31 and February 1.

The Skating Club will again present an imposing array of contenders for the title, including Dorothy Glazier and Michael Driscoll, both of Brookline, who are looked upon as certain contenders for the national senior pairs title.

Gretchen Merrill of Brookline and Harborne Stuart of Cambridge will enter either the senior or junior championship classes.

Betsy Nichols, looked upon as one of the top flight solo skaters and skating dancers of America; Leslie Glazier, Sylvia Van Ness, Roberta Jenks, Benjamin Crocker and several other club members who will compete.
